REVIVAL BARS SWIFT SPEECH FOR THE IDLE

Morrison I. Swift addressing followers outside Tremont Temple after revival platform had been denied him for speech on behalf of the unemployed. Arrow points to Swift.

The Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, who is at the head of the great revival movement in this city, today refused to allow Morrison I. Swift, the Socialist, to make an address at the noon meeting in Tremont Temple.

Swift went there with a few of his friends. He met Dr. Chapman in the corridor and asked for permission to speak.

"I cannot allow it to-day," said Dr. Chapman, "because there has been no arrangement for it, and it would not be fair for either of us."

It was then arranged that Dr. Chapman give Mr. Swift an interview at 4:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon. Mr. Swift handed the noted evangelist two petitions.

Pleads for Unemployed.

The purport of the petitions were that Dr. Chapman interest the business men in a movement to ask the Mayor to give the unemployed of Boston work. Dr. Chapman told him that he would give the petition his consideration.

Swift reached Tremont Temple at 11:30 o'clock. At that time the Temple was almost filled. He waited on the sidewalk for a while and photographers took his picture. He had asked that 1,000 of the unemployed of the city go to Tremont Temple to-day and ask that prayer be made for manna from heaven for the 25,000 unemployed.

When he went inside it was found that there were no vacant seats on the main floor, and he was asked to go to the gallery. He declined to do this, and waited in the corridor until Dr. Chapman came along. Soon the great audience of more than completely filled the temple knew that he was there. There was no excitement in the meeting.

One of Swift's petitions follows:

Swift's Petition.

"Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman:

"Dear Sir—We propose, as immediate, practical measures, that you can take to help Boston's immense number of unemployed, that you announce next Sunday as 'Unemployment Sunday,' and devote all the services of yourself and your associates to arousing the uncivilized horrors of the present situation.

"And that you organize a movement among the Christian business men to go to the Mayor of Boston and demand that this criminal condition be relieved by pub-

EXPRESS KILLS MAD HORSE IN DASH OVER RAIL

A black racer worth $500, the property of A. I. Nelson of Holland street, Davis square, West Somerville, ran away today from Davis square and caused great excitement before he was killed by an express train. The horse was attached to a light sleigh. It ran through Holland street towards Arlington and presently turned and ran to North Cambridge junction.

A large number of school children were almost run down at that point. The runaway turned into the Massachusetts Central railroad tracks and galloped forth for a mile. Before it had gone far the sleigh caught in a frog on the track and was ripped loose, only the shafts clinging to the harness.

At the High bridge an express train running fifty miles an hour rounded a curve coming towards Boston, stopped the career of the frenzied horse, killing it instantly.

$200,000 BLAZE IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Feb. 5.—Fire supposed to have started from the spark of a locomotive destroyed two big buildings here today, and caused a total loss of at least $200,000.

The fire started in the E. A. Cowee elevator at 4 a. m. and this building was quickly destroyed. The flames swept on to the plant of the George D. Webb Granite and Construction Company. These buildings cover an acre of ground. All caught fire.

The loss to the Webb Company will be at least $150,000, while the value of the destroyed Cowee grain elevator is believed to be about $50,000.

Three hundred men are thrown out of work by the fire. The Webb Company had just shipped out $75,000 worth of marble columns for a public building in Washington.

Flying embers set fire to a half dozen dwellings several streets away from the scene of the blaze, which was on Crescent street. All of these were put out by the occupants of the houses themselves. The house of Charles H. Goddard on Shattuck street was damaged in this way to the extent of $1,000.

Both the granite construction company and the grain elevator are directly along side of the Boston & Maine tracks. Two carloads of grain which were standing on a siding were burned.

State Senator Edward A. Cowee, owner of the grain elevator, had but little insurance on his property.

The greatest loss to the granite construction company plant was sustained in the power plant and the big shed used for storing finished marble pieces.

COLD WAVE TO FOLLOW HOT

After the cold waves of the past week, Boston early yesterday had a temperature of 58 above zero this afternoon. A cold wave is due here early next week.

The fluctuations of the mercury steadily up through the early part of the day. It was at the 20-degree mark by 9 a. m., and rose till the middle of the afternoon.

The warm spell is likely to break into rain before long, it is predicted. To-morrow will be a warm day for Winter, even if rain comes, with wind light from the southwest.

The Weather Bureau in Washington this afternoon issued the following bulletin:

"The present period of mild weather will be followed by a cold wave that will appear in the northwest Sunday or Monday, advance over the central valleys and lake region Monday and Tuesday, and reach the Middle Atlantic and New England States about the middle of next week."

ATTACKS PACKERS' COMBINE

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The Beef Trust is to be probed again by the Federal Government. The beef business is to get the closest scrutiny it ever got in connection with oft-repeated charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

So far-reaching is the scope of the present investigation that the New England beef handling situation is to be thoroughly examined for the reported formation of an auxiliary combination for the Beef Trust in the New England States. It is charged that Swift & Company spent ten millions to formulate a combine in the New England States which includes tanneries as well as packing and provision houses. Reported in the Swift deal, it is declared, are the following:

North Packing & Provision Company of Somerville, including the John P. Squire & Company concern.

Wiley, Peavey & Dexter Co. of Worcester.

Springfield Provision Company of Brightwood, controlled by the North Packing and Provision Company.

National Calf Skin Company of Boston.

A. C. Lawrence Leather Company of Boston.

Winchester Tannery Company of Boston.

Kipp, Barnes & Hart Co. of New Haven.

Consolidating Rendering Company of Boston.

New England Dressed Meat and Wool Company of Boston.

News of this second Beef Trust inquiry became known here at noon to-day in connection with the present hearings before the Federal Grand Jury.

Indict Every Magnate.

United States District Attorney Sims, under direct orders from President Roosevelt, plans to indict every beef magnate. The orders from Washington are to permit "No guilty man to escape."

It has been generally believed that the present federal grand jury was hearing only relate charges against Nelson Morris & Co. Gradually that inquiry has broadened to every packing house in the yards. A greater conspiracy than ever before has been revealed, it is charged. So important were the discoveries that District Attorney Sims and his chief assistant, James O. Wilkerson, have rushed to Washington to report.

Witnesses from Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and the National Packing Company have been subpoenaed and secretly taken before the grand jury. The inquiry has enriched from the investigation of private partners of Nelson Morris & Co. to a full-fledged investigation of the beef trust, which it has now been discovered flourishes more than in the prime of the last successful grand jury investigation. Between fifty and one hundred witnesses from all the packing houses are to be summoned. The history of all the concerns will be taken before the jury.

Find Important Evidence.

Already it is declared evidence of the most important character in the anti-trust law have been discovered. On exam, who is in close touch with the inquiry, said: "We find evidence of a real live Beef Trust stick ing out so plainly that it cannot be disregarded.

"The departure of District Attorney Edwin W. Sims has more to do with the Beef Trust case than anything else. He is to resign from office in March and will probably take up other matters while in the national capital, but the Beef Trust inquiry is now the important prosecuting feature department of justice.

"It is the desire of the Government to show that not only did Nelson Morris & Company get about $100,000 a year by an illegal railroad rebate system, but the same system was used by some of the packing companies, and by means of its use are able to keep together a combination many times as powerful as any previously formed.

Trust in New England.

It has been charged that Swift & Company up the expenditure of $10,000,000 formed an auxiliary combine in New England including every packing and provision house in five States. Tanneries have also been included.

LONGBOAT BACKED TO WIN BIG RACE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Ready to race as if their lives depended on the result, Al Shrubb, the English champion, and Tom Longboat, the redskin, await the pistol shot which sends them along in the greatest Marathon in history.

Never were two star athletes better groomed for the fray to battle for glory and coin than the sleek-limbed Shrubb and the rangy Indian.

Confidence in Shrubb made him the favorite at the Madison Square Garden for the contest to-night in the earlier betting at odds of 7 and 8 to 5, but an avalanche of money which the Canadian contingent brought down from Toronto on the late trains boosted Longboat's standing and forced the betting to evens.

Canadians Back Longboat.

It was a big flurry the Canadians created by the way they plunged on the Indian. It shook the faith of the Shrubb supporters to a great extent and the outcome of the race became all the more uncertain to the depositors.

It will be a bankrupt crowd of Canadians after the event if Longboat fails to take the measure of the Englishman as they have gone the limit in backing the Redskin. The successor to Deerfoot has never failed them yet and in spite of Shrubb's noted cameo on the cinders and his record-smashing they believe that the dogged plodding of the Indian will be too strenuous for the athlete.

Greatest of Marathons.

It needed no expert's opinion to tell the public that this race was to be the hardest grind in the history of running, as the callers of the two men spoke for itself and the contest was the culmination of much backing and filling on the part of each before consenting to sign terms of agreement.

Shrubb has counted on the race as good as won, and if his plans materialize he will win. He will go out like a racehorse at the crack of the gun, and intends to race the Indian off his feet if he attempts to follow him, and expects to gain several laps in the first ten miles by his superior speed. Then he figures that his natural gait will carry him along to the finish and across the finest 10-mile plenty of margin, and miss with a new Marathon record to add to his fame. So sure is he of defeating the Indian that he has made some theatrical engagements to begin immediately after his victory.

Englishman Confident.

Shrubb has figured that he will cover 25 miles 385 yards in 2:32 if pressed by the Indian, and to reach this mark will surely bring him home a winner unless Longboat shows something phenomenal. The Englishman says that his injured toe is entirely healed and if is not likely to cause him too much trouble at any stage. Shrubb's running form has been kept in the dark, but one glance at the copper-colored speedster when he arrived in the city was conclusive that he was never better in shape or more confident of victory. He knows that he is facing the toughest antagonist who ever went over a route before, but the Indian, true to his racial type, is game, and does not fear the outcome.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Brooklyn jury before which William Gow, formerly president of the International Trust Company and director of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn, was tried on a charge of the larceny of $165,000, disagreed early today, the vote standing eight for acquittal and four for conviction. Gow was already held under $27,000 bail, and this was continued.

District Attorney Clarke says he will probably try Gow on one of the misdemeanor charges.

AMBULANCE IN WILD RUNAWAY WITH DYING MAN ENDANGERS LIVES

A runaway horse dragging an ambulance for a short distance. The strap breaking, containing a dying man thrilled the crowds in Washington street, between Summer street and Haymarket Square today. In the ambulance were two surgeons from the relief hospital and the driver.

The ambulance had been called to take a laborer injured on the new building at Washington street and temple place. With the bell clanging for right of way it started back at a lively pace. Dr. Frank Monahan was administering stimulants to the patient and Dr. Theodore Miller was riding with Driver Tom Clark, urging him to full speed.

At Summer street a frightful scene. The horse is a high-spirited animal, unusually large and powerful, and snarling from the cuts of the whip it mounted before it sped forward with the bit in its teeth.

Down the street the runaway went, locking from side to side. Time after time it rolled along for fifty feet or more on two wheels. The driver fought desperately to get control of the horse, now using on the reins and coaxing his bell furiously.

At State street Policeman Martin S. Cosgrove saw the runaway. A big double truck was crawling slowly across and the runaway was but a hundred yards distant, and coming like mad. Cosgrove yelled to the driver, who whipped up his horses, and by the smallest possible margin tier cleared and tipped on the pavement and got their load into safety.

Cosgrove ran around the end of the truck, and as the runaway came abreast by the fiddle,

Witte Accused as Plotter Against Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG—Czar Nicholas is to-day one of the most insistent men in all Russia that the Douma's interpellations concerning the alleged participation of government agents in numerous assassinations of late years be given a thorough investigation. It is said that the Douma will be ready to take up the case on M. Bivan's 15 instead of February 12, as at first announced.

Close advisers of the Czar are understood to have counselled a suppression of the inquiry, but they found Nicholas furious over the revelations that have been made.

The latest of the many sensations that have surrounded the Lopukhin and Azef disclosures is to the effect that M. Witte, president of the Council of Ministers, was among the statesmen whom the government spies accused of revolutionary sympathies and that Minister of the Interior von Plehve was on his way to the Czar to take up this charge against Witte when he was assassinated.

WHO WANTS THIS ABANDONED BABE, BLUE-EYED BOY?

Somerville police believe there is a story of a mother's destitution and suffering behind the abandonment last evening of one of the prettiest baby boys ever seen at the City Home. The scantily clad child was found lying on the bare floor in the vestibule of the house at No. 50 Walnut avenue, Somerville, at 7.15 o'clock. Mrs. Esther M. Martin, who occupies the house, heard the wailing of a feeble voice and when she went to the door was astonished to find it came from a corner of the vestibule. She reached down in the darkness and picked up in kindly arms an infant about eight weeks old, with red cheeks, blue eyes and quite a generous growth of light hair.

Mrs. Martin notified the police and Mrs. M. F. Woodland, a police matron, took the baby to the City Home, where it was put in the keeping of Mrs. J. Foster Colquhoun, matron of that institution.

The baby is suffering from eczema, cold and exposure. He evidently had not been fed for some time before being left out in the cold to the care of strangers. A blanket on was a long baby slip, evidently made from a woman's nightgown, a little waistband, which had slipped away up to his armpits, a pair of crocheted shoes and a little bonnet. He was wrapped up in an old black cashmere shawl. There was nothing on the baby clothes to give the slightest hint as to the identity of his parents or where he came from.

PARLIAMENT IN WILD RIOT

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—Racial rancor between the Germans and the Czechs resulted in a turbulent scene at the first session of the present Austrian Parliament this morning.

The more radical of the Czechs blew whistles and beat drums during the speeches of the Germans.

This morning the uproar became so great that a general free-for-all fight ensued, in which several of the deputies were badly wounded and a Czech member named Spezech, who had been particularly violent, was beaten until he begged for mercy.

Chanting revolutionary songs, the deputies ranged each other and fought until the majority had bleeding noses or blackened eyes. The disorders had an adverse effect upon prices on the Bourse.

SWIFT'S HOST BARRED FROM THE TEMPLE

He work. We protest last if Christianity fails to do His bidding.

Sincerely yours,

MORRISON I. SWIFT."

Asks God's Aid.

The second petition read:

"Petition to Rev. Wilbur J. Chapman from the unemployed.

"Dear Sir.—We pray you to beseech God to soften the hearts of your Christians that they may compel you to give us employment. They know the appalling need. They remain hard. They love their dim far-off God. They love not his near-to-hand children. Workingmen are society's slaves.

"Religion is the morphine they are doped with in hard times to keep them still. Is your religion a part of this fraud? Or does it mean something? As you say only that Christianity can save from every great crying wrong.

"If your religion has honesty in it, you will come down with humiliating fury vengeances of sin in general and attack the definite forms of sin. Demand wages for all.

"The devils in hell must laugh at your 15,000 sermons a year, 15,000 people in Boston are hungry all the time, and half-starved, decent ones are walking the cruelly iced streets all night. This is fact. They would work if they could. Christian masters would give them work.

"Please turn your powerful force on this social terror of unemployment. Help stop the manufacture of sinners and you will not have to save them. It is a duty that cannot be shirked on God.

"For the unemployed."

One of the features at the meeting today was the spirited appeal made by George T. B. Davis, a newspaper man, who has been working with Mr. Alexander for four years that Christians buy pocket Testaments and carry them. One of those on the platform was Mayor Walter C. Wardwell of Cambridge.

MODIFY BILL IN WAR ON SCHOOL SECRET CLUBS

The Legislative Committee on Education to-day reported in the Senate a new draft of the bill presented by David A. Ellis, giving the Boston School Committee, of which Ellis is chairman, authority to exclude from Boston schools children who belong to secret societies or organizations not sanctioned by the school authorities. The committee's draft allows membership in religious societies. The Ellis bill in part forbids all.

The bill is the result of the efforts of the headmasters and teachers in the schools, who have discovered certain societies to be controlling to their members. Headmaster Charles M. Clay of the Roxbury High School says such a society held a banquet at a high school "frat," and sang improper songs. He told of a boy of fifteen who had become incurably ill by trying to live up to the conduct recommended by his society.

MYSTERY IN JURY QUIZ ON FINANCE

Police Inspector "Bob" Armstrong, who has worked so many cases investigated by the Finance Commission, one of the Finance Commission's male clerks and a young woman stenographer were before the February Grand Jury to-day with Assistant District Attorney M. J. Dwyer.

News that Armstrong, the clerk and the stenographer had gone before the jury and that Armstrong had taken in six boxes of important looking documents and that there was an atmosphere of mystery and secrecy about the whole, caused quite a flurry in political circles, also in various business and commercial circles.

Previous to being called into the Grand Jury room, the young woman stenographer remained in the District Attorney's office, where she was free from the gaze of newspapermen and various politicians and others who gathered about the corridor.

The Grand Jury has been considering the routine cases as usual. It is said that yesterday, however, it took up some matters of a secret nature. To-day the presence of Inspector Armstrong strengthened a previous opinion that Finance Commission matters were being considered.

The Grand Jury is expected to come in again next week for an extra sitting to investigate special matters offered by the Finance Commission, matters on which Assistant District Attorney Dwyer and Attorney M. J. Sughrue, counsel for the commission, have held almost daily consultations for the past three weeks.

TEN DROWNED IN FLOOD RUSH IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Ten persons are reported to have been drowned at Nordhausen and several bridges swept away by the floods, which have been more or less general throughout Germany as the result of heavy rains and warm weather. The lower streets of Nuremberg are awash, the Pegnitz River having arisen twelve feet during the night. Enormous damage to public and private property has been caused and several of the city's newspapers have been compelled to suspend publication until the freshet, which is the most severe experienced in over thirty years, subsides.

Reports from Frankfort-on-the-Main and Hessen both report heavy damage. Conditions continue to grow in seriousness. The town of Herdecke is flooded and several dams have given way before the pressure of the swollen streams in the neighborhood of Hagen.

An entire family narrowly escaped death at Dortmund last night, the fire department finally rescuing them from the second story of their home. Railroads along the north side of the Baltic and on the continent are at a standstill and trains from Cologne are being sent over the Ems Marks on the south side. A special signal service has been started in operation along the Rhine, whose waters are steadily rising.

CZAR JOINS TERRORIST HUNT FOR SPY

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 5.—Eugene Azef is now being hunted by the government as well as by the Fighting Socialists, the organization that has declared him a traitor and condemned him to death.

The government has decided, on account of the revelations concerning his terrorist activity, to withdraw its protection and make every effort to apprehend him. The secret police, deeply compromised in the Azef revelations, also will be thoroughly investigated.

Premier Stolypin, in a statement to his colleagues at a private sitting of the cabinet, declared that although secret agents abroad were indispensable and the employment of renegades a regrettable necessity, the work of provocative agents, as would under no circumstances be countenanced.

A. Lopukin, the ex-chief of police, who also is charged with treason, is being held in close confinement.

POULTRY MEN ASK STATE AID

The latest legislative cackle is State aid for the Massachusetts hen.

Before the legislative Committee on Agriculture this afternoon Senator George F. Birch of Milford, Representative Robert H. Washburn of Worcester and President Ross, Treasurer Fitton and Director Goff of the Worcester Poultry Association urged support of the bill of Senator Birch to authorize the State Board of Agriculture to expend $1,000 on bounties to poultry associations.

They said that the poultry associations needed State aid. President Ross declared the Worcester association could not hold another show without assistance. Senator Ross said that Massachusetts doesn't raise one-tenth of the 4,850,000 pounds of poultry she annually eats. He also showed that Bay States eat 15,154,000 dozens of eggs a year, the same being valued at $3,849,000.

CAPTAIN J. E. THOMPSON DIES

Word was received in this city to-day that Captain James E. Thompson, commander of the steamer Calvin Austin of the Eastern Steamship Company, is dead in New York City, following an operation.

Captain Thompson was very well known in this city, and was extremely popular, not only with business men, but with the thousands of passengers he had carried on his craft.

The captain was a native of Eastport, where he was born over fifty years ago. He will be buried there. He leaves a widow, mother, two brothers and a sister, all of Portland, where he resided.

REVERE SEEKS PAY FOR USE OF SEWERS

The town of Revere wants the State to pay for the use of its sewers by the Metropolitan Park Commission, and the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs gave a hearing on the matter at the State House to-day. Town Solicitor Samuel H. Cutler explained that when, twelve years ago, Revere gave the commission authority to discharge park sewage through the town's system no one realized how much the park sewage would increase.

FREE MAN ACCUSED BY GIRL WIFE OF STEALING HER AT PISTOL POINT

Mrs. Maria Albra of Newmarket, N. H., and Astel Travares.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 5.—Pretty Mrs. Maria Albra of Newmarket, N. H., who accuses Astel Travares with driving her husband, Louis, from their home, and, at the muzzle of a revolver, kidnapping her, is awaiting word from her husband that he is coming here for her.

The girl-wife, who is but eighteen years of age, sticks to the remarkable story she told Policeman McNamee and Captain Peter B. Cannon yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Albra, who has recovered from the terrible ordeal she says she underwent when a captive, is in the care of Probation Officer Miss Donehy.

"I was afraid Astel would kill me," she insists to-day, "when he came to our home in Newmarket, where my husband and I lived happily. He drew a revolver and drove Louis away and then made me pack up some clothes and go with him to Norwich, Ct. He took me to a boarding house kept by the other man who was arrested and said, 'This is my wife.' I denied it, but no one believed me.

"I feared for my life, and when they came here I dared not refuse to come with them. I didn't eat much while they had me in their power, as I was afraid of being poisoned."

Travares denies that he kidnapped the woman or threatened either her or her husband with his revolver. He declares she came with him willingly and then got tired and wanted to go back to her husband.

Mrs. Albra is clad in a neat dark red gown, with pretty hat trimmed with green feathers. She made a striking appearance as she told her story to the police.

MAN BITTEN BY DOG SUFFERING FROM RABIES

There is a mad dog scare in Dorchester to-day because Mason Chase of No. 31 Wales street, that district, was bitten a week ago Thursday night by a Boston terrier mad dog owned by Charles Donovan of No. 32 Wales street.

Mr. Donovan at once turned the dog over to Dr. John A. O'Connell, a veterinary, a brother of Congressman O'Connell, for observation. The dog became so violent in actions that the veterinary had to have him killed.

A portion of the dog's body was handed to Examiner Alexander Burr of the State Board of Health for examination. He reported to Mr. Donovan that his dog had been seriously afflicted with rabies.

Mr. Chase to-day went to the City Hospital for advice about submitting himself to the Pasteur treatment. He was quite badly bitten on the left hand by the dog. Mrs. Donovan was ill in bed to-day, suffering from shock sustained when she had the pet dog had been killed.

An examination will be made of all the dogs in the neighborhood for fear they may have been bitten.

HEALTH BOARD IS ACCUSED BY STENOGRAPHER

The Health Commissioners to-day held a "star chamber" hearing on the charges made to Mayor Hibbard by Miss Mary H. Fisher of No. 10 Thane street, Dorchester, in which she made definite, serious allegations against employes of the Health Department and the conduct of that office. Miss Fisher's interests are being looked after by Representative Charles Addison Malley and former Assistant U. S. District Attorney Gay A. Hunt.

Miss Fisher went to work for the Health Department last April on a stenographer in the Health Department. She was discharged in December "for the good of the department."

While she worked in the office she kept a diary or a journal of her experiences and after her discharge she sent a long letter to the Mayor making charges against the conduct of the office and of affairs being there carried on.

She will declare that while she worked in the Health Department in the old City Hall House she was constantly subjected to insults and annoyances by men employes of the department. She declares that there is no discipline in the department, that the clerks do as they please, that one of her fellow clerks, for example, said to her: "Why, the Health Commissioners are old fossils and one their jobs is political graft."

Mayor Demands Facts.

The young woman stenographer's remarkable diary of daily happenings in the Health Department office is full of names and exact conversations are reported. She offers this as proof that her life in the office was one which she could hardly keep and maintain her self-respect on account of the annoyances of persons in the office. She gives their names.

When Mayor Hibbard read over this diary and the young woman's letter, he at once gave the charges to the Health Commissioners and ordered them to find out all the facts.

"I received the charges made by Miss Fisher some days ago," said Mayor Hibbard to-day. "I turned the matter over to the Health Board last night and ordered the commissioners to make a complete investigation at once. This they began to-day. I await their report. When I get it, then I can determine just what action I shall take."

Miss Fisher received $15 a week as stenographer for the city. Unofficially it was learned at the Health Department office to-day that she was discharged because she was "unpopular in the office and incentric." She was selected from the civil service lists. She was succeeded in the position by Miss Aileen G. Angell, who has been a stenographer with the Finance Commission.

The Health Board which held to-day's hearing consists of Dr. D. Sumner Durgin, chairman, and Commissioners John Ritchie, Jr., and Frederick O. North.

BUTLER AMES RISKS $100,000 IN LODGE FIGHT

"Young" Butler Ames of Lowell, congressman from the Fifth Massachusetts District, grandson of the late General Benjamin F. Butler, West Point graduate, ex-bondsman and servant, is out to defeat Henry Cabot Lodge for re-election to the United States Senate when the latter's present term expires in 1911.

Ames will run against Mr. Lodge. He announced his candidacy yesterday in Washington. With the announcement of his candidacy came the declaration that he will spend $100,000 to defeat the senior senator.

Either an Ames-Lodge contest will mean to Massachusetts was the one topic for discussion among State politicians to-day in the Bowdoin Hill, at the Republican State Committee's headquarters, in hotel lobbies and in other places where G. O. P. politicians are wont to gather the subject was freely discussed.

One "man who knows," volunteered the opinion that Ames's candidacy is typical what everybody on the inside knew was coming when Lodge dared to run his Republican steam roller over John N. Cole and James F. Shaw in their contests for Lieutenant-Governor and Senate President, respectively. Cole and Shaw are both Essex county men. "Give Essex a chance" was the cry of each in his campaign last Fall.

Ames and Cole were political enemies until recently. Republican politicians said to-day that it will occasion no surprise to see John N. Cole on the front step of the Butler Ames Senatorial band wagon. It was also said to-day that Ames banks his hope for his success on an expectation that the Massachusetts Legislature may enact the James F. Shaw bill providing for direct nominations for United States Senator from this State. Ames's chances would be better under a direct nominations system, politicians said to-day.

"And don't forget," said one State committee officer, "that ex-Governor Curtis Guild is also a candidate against Lodge. His friends have known it for months."

Sixty-seven were fined $5 each, eleven cases were placed on file, two were discharged, one was fined $10 and another $1. In the case of Joseph Kom, who was fined $10, the police testified that he gave the wrong name and address.

ASK DRAINAGE SYSTEM FOR SOUTH END

South End house owners or occupants have petitioned the city of Boston for a better drainage system in that part of the town to prevent the flooding of cellars with water. Insufficient sewer mains to-day is be the cause of the trouble. The territory in which the complaints are made is bounded by Washington, Dover and Canton streets and Columbus avenue.

The petitioners complain that they have suffered for years and that at times property has been damaged. The condition be also declared to be unsanitary. There are scores of names on the petition, which is headed by the name of Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell of No. 100 West Brookline street but she says that there are many others in the district who have as much cause for complaint as those who have signed the prefect and appeal.

A member of the firm of Mitten Brothers of Nos. 1251 and 1253 Washington street, said: "At times the water in our cellar is so deep that clerks have to put on rubber boots to go down there. The water usually comes after a long rain. The people around here have complained to the city, but little good seems to have come from it. It is an old story now."

The secretary of the Shawmut Congregational Church said: "Sometimes the water in the cellar of the church gets so high it reaches the ash hoi of the furnace. We are troubled about twice a year. At times the company has complained of dampness and had to keep up big fires to offset it.

Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell said: "I am very little attention at City Hall to what I had to say as an individual. They put me off with the story that all we need to do is to put in traps and the traps will not stop it. I put them in and have been bothered as much as ever."

Sewer department officials claim that the petition exaggerates the situation and that there are but many cellars flooded in the district as is claimed.

TELL NEW HOSPITAL ABUSES; SAY DYING GIRL WAS NEGLECTED

FITCHBURG, Feb. 5—The biggest sensation yet produced in the startling revelations in connection with the investigation of the Burbank Hospital was caused by Dr. C. Berram Gay, who declared that a patient upon whom he had operated would have died from neglect as she was coming out of ether and he not caused to step into the room in time to prevent her suffocating.

The patient was Miss Ethel Lamb, a girl of eighteen, of this city. Dr. Gay said that she would have been dead in fifteen minutes if he had not discovered her. He said he blamed the hospital for putting a green nurse in charge of the case who was not fitted for the work.

The statement of Dr. Gay has aroused the doctors of this city, who hesitated to go forward in the matter until some one of prominence would lead. This afternoon at 4 o'clock many other doctors will appear before the committee and offer testimony. Among them will be Dr. Eustace L. Fiske, Dr. Woodworth and Dr. Dwight.

Make Testimony Public.

Dr. Gay's testimony was not expected by the committee, and it acted like a bomb. When asked for details of complaints he offered to go on all night if necessary, but Mayor O'Connell stopped him by saying that he would be heard at another time.

A part of the secret testimony of Mrs. Fred I. Cate that had been withheld was made public today, in which she was asked:

"Do you think that your mother was drugged to the last?"

"Yes, I do. My cousin said the moment she entered the room: 'Your mother is drugged.'"

Following is the testimony of Dr. Gay:

Dr. C. Berram Gay was questioned by President of the Common Council, Harry K. Bennett.

Q—Doctor, there has been the charge made that a patient who had been operated upon here last month, was left after coming from ether in the charge of a nurse and almost died through either the neglect or ignorance of the nurse. Is that so? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was this patient? A.—An eighteen-year-old girl, Edith Lamb of No. 764 Snow street.

Q.—What were the circumstances? A.—The girl was etherized and was operated upon by me for a plastic operation. I was assisted by Dr. McIver, who gave the ether, and Miss Catherine O'Conner, the operating nurse. The girl was removed after the operation to her private room, and I spent a half hour in the room with her. In my way out I decided to look at the girl. I was amazed to find her blue in the face, almost pulseless and suffocating from the mucous in her throat, which had been allowed to gather because the patient had been kept lying on her back. I gave word with her. I hastily called Miss Lomay, who was the ward nurse in charge of the girl an injection and cared for her. Miss Lomay told me that the nurse that had been in the room was a green one; that she only had her on a little while.

Girl Would Have Died.

Q.—Now, doctor, if you had not chanced into that room at the time you did, what would have happened to Miss Lamb? A.—The girl would have been dead in fifteen minutes.

Q.—Who did you blame for that condition? A.—I blame the hospital management and the system here.

Q.—And you don't blame the nurse? A.—No; the nurse didn't know any better; she was a green nurse, and such a system as about not have placed in charge of an ether patient.

Q.—Did you complain of this case? A.—Yes, I complained to Dr. McIver and the nurse.

Q.—Did you complain to the superintendent? A.—No.

Q.—Why? A.—Because it's no use to make complaints here. I have found it sufficient to complain to Dr. McIver and the nurse.

Q.—By Alvah H. Crocker—What is the spirits as you have found it in the hospital? A.—Miss Whyte does not co-operate as she should with doctors who have been to rebuff, but she does.

Q.—Have you been rebuffed? A.—Yes, and doctors generally have.

Q.—Have any of your patients been denied food ordered. A.—Yes, day after day until I complained to the matron.

Q.—Do you think such a hospital as this should be conducted for a woman? A.—I do not. Under your system you expect a woman to run a farm, conduct a hotel, manage a laundry and superintend a hospital. The system is bad. The hospital should have a man in charge executive in general charge.

Q.—Have you had any trouble in the admission of patients?

Waited an Hour.

A.—Yes, once I brought a girl here, on papers properly signed, and admission was refused for almost an hour. Miss Whyte was away and refused to see me. Then Miss Whyte came she said the girl would not be admitted because she owned a back bill. The girl had also her treatment. She delay, for an hour, while she sat on a wooden bench, was harmful.

GIRLS SEE STAGE CAREER IN "FROHMAN STAR" CONTEST

Two types of Boston beauty.

New England—all America for that matter—is full of pretty girls who in their hearts believe that if fate would only give them a chance for a fair trial they would in time out-shine Lillian Russell in loveliness of stage presence. Edna May in winsome charm, Billie Burke as a picture of dainty womanhood, and Marie Dora in her fetching method of gentleness. Some of these dreamers are right in their belief. At last they have the opportunity to test their dreams.

Through the BOSTON AMERICAN Charles Frohman makes an offer to the girls of New England, who feel they have talent, backed up by good looks, to take a place upon the stage.

If there is any girl in New England who believes that she has dramatic talent, this is her opportunity.

Pictures Taken Free.

Mr. Frohman is looking for talent. He is looking for young women who can act. He is looking for young women who are not afraid to work. He is looking for young women who have in them the latent qualities which may be blossomed into a Mary, a Barbara, a Marguerite or a Williams—that same Hattie Williams who is to be seen this week at the Park Theatre in the title role of Fluffy Ruffles.

There is a model for girls who think of a stage career. Those who think it is all "cookies and ale" on the stage ought to go to Miss Williams for just a moment. She is a glittering example of the girl who has worked her way from the ranks to stardom. It was through her that the Miss Clinton girl got the letter of generous offer now thrown open to the girls of New England.

The BOSTON AMERICAN, which Mr. Frohman selected to assist him in his search for talent, takes pleasure in announcing today another step in this commendable quest for stage material. The Otto Sarony Studio in Tremont street has volunteered to take the pictures of all young women who wish to enter the Charles Frohman American Beauty Contest. These pictures will be taken free of charge. Only those who wish photographs to submit to the BOSTON AMERICAN may go to the Otto Sarony Studio and without cost have photographs made.

All photographs submitted are going to be referred to a committee of judges headed by Miss Hattie Williams. The photographs going to be anonymous—that is to say, no names will be known to Miss Williams and her fellow judges. All photographs are to be known by number.

The result of the collection submitted to Miss Williams fitly will be chosen and they will be printed in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Then the AMERICAN readers will be asked to vote upon the six. In this manner it is hoped most fitted for the career to which they aspire.

Forty Weeks at $25 Per.

It is an unusually generous offer made by Mr. Frohman. He promises to give to the six girls chosen by the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN a forty-week contract at $25 a week in one of his companies.

This contract is likely to be renewed for an indefinite period.

He also offers the opportunity of an appearance at one of the London Theatres.

Mr. Frohman is a maker of stars.

This is an opportunity for the girl with talent. Good looks do not constitute the only qualification for admission into the contest. This competition is above all one of stage possibilities.

Do you want to go on the stage? Send in your photograph now to the BOSTON AMERICAN. The names of the unsuccessful contestants are not going to be known, so if you fail no one will know about it. Send in the best. Don't thought of you sending in a photograph if you think you have within you the talent.

Photographs will be received in the BOSTON AMERICAN office until February 14. They must be addressed to the Charles Frohman American Beauty Contest.

Write on the back of the photograph your name, address and any personal description you may see fit.

This is a great chance for young girls. The six lucky ones get a forty-week engagement at $25 a week and splendid prospects.

Readers to Decide.

For the next two weeks the BOSTON AMERICAN will receive photographs of all young women who wish to enter. The only girls barred are those who have had previous stage experience.

After Miss Williams has accepted fifty photographs the voting will begin. All the accepted photographs will be printed in this paper. There will be a voting coupon printed at the same time by which readers of the AMERICAN may make known their choice.

The photograph sent to the AMERICAN will be returned. No personal letters addressed to Mr. Frohman, Miss Williams or the Editor of the AMERICAN will receive any consideration. All photographs and communications should be addressed to the Frohman American Beauty Contest Editor.

FIND BODY OF MAN IN HARBOR

The body of an unknown man was found in the water off the Strandway in South Boston at 7.30 today. It was taken to the morgue of Undertaker Nolan.

How the man came to his death is a mystery. The police are investigating the case, however, and believe it was due to accident or foul play, or if the man was a suicide.

The body is that of a man about fifty-five years old, five feet seven inches in height and weighs 150 pounds. He had light hair, a red mustache and blue eyes. He wore a dark sack suit, blue overalls, a white shirt, black tie, blue stockings and army underwear. The body was found near the public landing.

MERCHANTS BACK WEEKS

The Boston Merchants' Association and the Boston Chamber of Commerce have united to send out personal letters to New England senators and congressmen urging united support for the Weeks forest reserve bill, now before Congress. The bill is in no wise a party measure and senators and congressmen from New England are found to be favorable to it.

The Weeks bills provides for the purchase by the government of forests on watersheds for their preservation as national forests. They are to be purchased from the revenues accruing from existing national forests. A million dollars is to be spent this year and two millions each subsequent year for ten years is the proposed rate of expenditure.

EDWIN MARKHAM, the famous California poet, has written a remarkable poem on the coin, which will appear for the first time, exclusively, in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

REPORT BILL FOR STATE TO VOTE ON JAPS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 5.—The Senate committee having the measure under consideration reported favorably today the bill providing that at the next general election the voters of California shall be given an opportunity officially to record their attitude on the Japanese question.

The Assembly today will be asked to reconsider the vote by which it passed the bill segregating Japanese in the public schools. It is a message from Governor Gillette, who is acting according to the request of President Roosevelt, who yesterday urged upon him to devise some way to stop the progress of the school bill.

Governor Gillette, it is understood, will make a strong appeal to the Legislature to uphold the national administration in its efforts to effect an amicable settlement of the entire Japanese question.

The Governor has been in conference with the leaders in the Senate most of the day and is hopeful of organizing a successful opposition in case the House's reconsideration of the measure is unproductive. Failing in this, the Governor will veto the measure.

Japs Grieved at Bill.

At the local Japanese consulate the news was received as soon as the bill passed, and on behalf of the Vice-Consul, Takahashi, Secretary Kozan made the following statement:

"Speaking for the Japanese Consul and residents, we are very much grieved that the Assembly passed this bill. We did not expect that such action would be taken even by the Assembly. We are confident, however, that the bill will not pass in the Senate because of the attitude of a majority of the members of that House. Moreover we feel certain that Governor Gillett disapproves the desires of President Roosevelt, will not sign the bill, even though it pass in both Houses. President Roosevelt and Governor Gillett, we believe, are acting justly and wisely in this matter.

"The shipping of an immense amount of war munitions to the Pacific Insular possessions and the rumor that the order has been issued to gather the entire Pacific fleet a leaden gray, the color of war, are also subjects of popular discussion here.

"The close of the present week will see an unusual amount of war material and supplies shipped from this port to the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands.

Guns for Island Defences.

To-day the bark Mohican clears for Honolulu, riding deep in the water under the weight of two great disappearing guns destined to form a part of the defence at Pearl Harbor, the site of the new naval station in the Hawaiian Islands.

The transport Pacific Mail liner Asia will sail for Manila and Japan, carrying 3,500 tons of coal, 2,000 tons of which consists of army and navy stores for the Philippines. Included in this shipment are 200 submarine mines, which are to be placed beneath the wharf of Subig Bay, at the entrance of Manila harbor, and 2,500 rounds of 6-inch ammunition. The army transport Sheridan will also leave for Honolulu to-day, loaded with 2,000 tons of general supplies for the troops in the islands.

TAFT RAPS LYING REPORTS ON BIG CANAL

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

PANAMA, Feb. 4.—With visits to Pedro Miguel and Miraflores and an inspection of the Pacific entrance to the Panama Canal, President-elect Taft and his party completed their tour of the Canal Zone.

Mr. Taft enjoyed the novel experience of sailing a mile up the Pacific entrance to the canal. The channel is only twenty-five feet deep as yet, but the trip gave those on board a good idea of what the canal will be like when finished.

When the party had completed their trip in a tug around the Islands at the mouth of the canal, which are to be fortified later, they were impressed by the splendid natural defenses which guard the country for fifty miles inland, and will make the Canal Zone practically impregnable from the Pacific side when the modern equipment for defense is in place.

Pleased with Works.

Mr. Taft was pleased with the location of the lock at Miraflores, which brings the canal down to sea level. This lock is the most important work on the Pacific side of the canal, and the approaches are guarded from possible attacks from the sea by a high range of hills.

The work is progressing favorably at Miraflores, and also at Pedro Miguel, where two locks are located.

The entire canal has now been inspected and the plans approved by Mr. Taft and the engineers appointed as a commission by President Roosevelt to examine and report upon the work, and who accompanied Mr. Taft. The work is now going forward with a rush.

Mr. Taft formally received large delegations of canal workers, and when they were all assembled many of the clubs in charge of the work told of its progress.

Taft Praises Energy.

In his speech in reply Mr. Taft expressed the opinion that altogether the canal affairs were never in better shape than at present. Every day, he said, a great amount of work was being done for which the workers deserved all credit, and condemned his hearers not to worry on account of lying reports and criticisms spoken or printed in the United States by irresponsible critics or writers.

"The American people are going to build the canal," said Mr. Taft. "Congress knows the temper of the people and the appropriations to it will be ample to complete the canal by 1915, if not before."

Mr. Taft and his board will embark on the warships Sunday to start their return trip to the United States.

BOOK TRUST OUSTED BY TEXAS COURT

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 5.—The American Book Company, by an agreed judgment, was penalized $15,000 and ousted from the State. The ouster proceedings filed by the State of Texas had been in progress for the past three days, and came to an abrupt termination by the agreement. A restraining order was issued against the American Book Company of New Jersey, now defunct, and the New York company is to withdraw from the State. The State had sued for penalties approximating $5,000,000.

ANTI-SALOON PLAN FAILS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Chicago will be a "wet town" for another year at least. They started to obtain 100,000 necessary petitioners, but got less than 50,000.

Diseased Kidneys.

If any of your family in this or past generations have had kidney disease of any kind, you should guard against it before it is too late.

Mr. William Hitchcock, Stapleton, S. I., N. Y., who suffered for two years from kidney and liver disease, praises Warner's Safe Cure for relieving and curing him after all else had failed.

On Oct. 25, 1908, Mr. Hitchcock wrote: "I had been suffering from kidney and liver trouble for two years, and seeing your advertisement in the New York World I tried Warner's Safe Cure and found that it gave me better results than anything else. Whenever I feel out of sorts I get a bottle of your remedy and it gives me instant relief. I have recommended it to several of my friends. I know it is a very old remedy, as some of my family used it some years ago with great success."

IF IN DOUBT MAKE THIS TEST.

ANALYSIS FREE.

MRS. FISH, NEW ALLY TO ANTI-SUFFRAGETTES

MRS. FISH NO SUFFRAGETTE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The National League for the Civic Education of Women, the anti-suffrage organization, which has been doing educational work by means of lectures and talks this Winter, has a new ally in Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, who has just joined the organization. Mrs. Fish is strongly opposed to woman suffrage. Giving her views to Mrs. Gilbert Jones, chairman of the executive committee of the league, she said:

"So much is being said in favor of woman's suffrage that, as you ask my opinion, I must give it truly even at the risk of appearing to disparage my own sex. Far from it; I think too well of women to imagine that they can be benefited by mixing in the mire of politics. They always have moved and ever should move in a higher sphere and deal with better and more lasting things than the election of this one, or that other, public office.

"In the first place we cannot and ought not to go against nature. From the time of Adam and Eve men and women have occupied different positions in life and have discharged different duties, and this we cannot alter.

"One of the main points raised by the 'Suffragettes' is that a woman has no control over her own property. However this may have been years ago, such is not the case here in New York, nor generally throughout the United States. Besides this a woman can have the advice of the most able men in the country just because she is a woman and alone. Were she to meet them on an equal in the struggle for existence, her position would be far worse, even though blessed, or cursed, with a vote. She could not then hope for what she now gets so largely and freely through the chivalry of educated men toward our sex."

GREENWICH, Ct., Feb. 5.—When Mrs. Luke A. Lockwood, a wealthy Riverside woman, learned that jewels valued at several hundred dollars had been stolen from her by John McGinley she paid but little heed to it, but when she found that he had stolen the favorite rag doll of her little granddaughter and had given it to his own two-year-old child she consented to appear as a witness in the case against McGinley, a union leader, "played politics."

SHOTGUN CURE FOR SCORCHERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The shotgun as a cure for auto speeding was advocated on the floor of the Senate by Senator Tillman.

Mr. Tillman said the automobiles of Washington "seared him," but that there was a way to stop them.

"I believe I can guess how the Senator would accomplish that," said Bailey, sarcastically.

"Certainly; with a shotgun," retorted Tillman. "Down in my country, when these things get to 'puff-puffing' around the roads we had three or four runaways. Women and children were hurt. Finally, when a man hitched up and started out, he put his trusty shotgun alongside him. When he saw one of the things coming he put his gun to his shoulder and the automobile stopped. Then automobile fellows got mighty polite after that."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 5.—Samuel Gompers's name was brought into the discussion of the failure of the Alabama strike by the United Mine Workers. And he was charged with having opposed the miners in the interest of the State authorities. This gave vim in line with many allegations that union leaders "played politics."

Today & Saturday--Annual February Sale--7500 Pairs Men's High Grade TROUSERS

Enough to Insure Every Man a Perfect Fit and a Pattern that Meets With His Approval

Many a Man Will Save the Price of a Suit by Purchasing a Pair of Trousers to Finish Out the Season

It is a FACT that we win MORE customers away from the high-priced merchant tailor with THIS SALE than with any other sale of the entire year, because MOST "tailor-made men" are SKEPTICS. They don't believe it possible to be fitted and suited in ready-for-service clothing. Perhaps they DID—ONCE—but their confidence has been shaken by the misrepresentation of some unscrupulous, unreliable dealer. Such men will take a CHANCE on a pair of ready-for-service TROUSERS, while they may NOT on a suit of clothes or an overcoat. They always HAVE been, and always WILL BE, satisfactorily fitted at this Annual Sale of Trousers—NEVER disappointed—and they make good Suit and Overcoat customers late in the season.

The Annual Trousers Sale is planned to appeal to the man accustomed to paying anywhere up to $10 for his trousers and having them made to measure, as well as to the man accustomed to paying from $3.00 up in other stores.

We have four grades, in medium, stout, tall, short and slender sizes, and ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE to fit any waist measurement of 29 to 50 inches, inclusive.

For weeks we have been dickering with a famous New York manufacturer for his entire surplus stock and sample lines of new Spring patterns, and we finally landed them at our own price, which enables us to put all other pant sales in the shade. You understand, of course, the manufacturers have finished taking their Spring orders, and this purchase represents the excess over the demand.

This is unquestionably the finest lot of worsted, cassimere and cheviot trousers ever exhibited by any store in Boston at either regular or special prices. They are cut in all the new widths, and every new staple pattern in stripes, checks and plaids known to the present season is included. Every pair is guaranteed to be a part of the new purchase, as this is not an effort to reduce our regular stocks, which are already too low, but it is more in order to advertise the men's store on the third Floor. If we can sell 7500 pairs of trousers now at prices very close to one-half, every man who buys a pair will come back in the Spring and buy a suit of clothes, so we can easily afford to give purchasers at this sale the advantage of better values than any other store.

This is the largest purchase ever made—the largest sale ever inaugurated—in New England. IF POSSIBLE, MAKE YOUR PURCHASES TODAY, as tomorrow, like, one year ago tomorrow, will undoubtedly surpass all previous selling in our Clothing Department.

Lot 1 - $1.65 — Regular $2.50 and $3.00

JURY VERDICT MAY REUNITE THE DUNPHYS

Mrs. Martha Maynelle Dunphy is preparing to start soon from Chicago to this city to effect a reconciliation with her husband, Dr. John Dunphy, and to show him the indorsement of her character as a wife signed by the jury which acquitted her in Chicago from the larceny charge brought by Charles E. Giles.

Dr. Dunphy said to-day at his Court street office:

"Not a word, not a word! I won't discuss my wife's affairs with anyone. But it is fully believed by friends of the pair, however, that Dr. Dunphy will receive his wife with loving kindness and that a reconciliation and reunion may have been between them will be fully healed.

The indorsement Mrs. Dunphy secured from the Chicago jury is unique. After the verdict of acquittal of larceny of jewels and securities had been rendered Mrs. Dunphy thanked the jury earnestly. Then she drew up the following statement for the jurymen to sign:

"We, the undersigned jurors in the trial in which Mrs. Martha Maynelle Dunphy was a defendant, charged with the larceny of jewels and securities from Charles E. Giles, do hereby declare it to be our belief, in the face of the testimony given by the witness stand by the complaining witness that he did register as man and wife with the defendant at various hotels, that the defendant conducted herself as a true and virtuous wife, and that at no time, despite the testimony of this complaining witness, was she guilty of such indiscretions as should alienate her from her husband's affections."

Some of the jurors signed the indorsement immediately, and it was confidently believed by Mrs. Dunphy that she would secure all the signatures.

Attorney Haller, who defended Mrs. Dunphy, is quoted in Chicago as

POLICE HOLD 2 AS BANDITS IN HOLD-UP

PAWTUCKET, Feb. 5.—The police of this city believe they have under arrest the two men who fatally shot Charles Randall and seriously injured Miss Emma L. Dodge, whom they held up and tried to rob of $2,500 three weeks ago, as the man and young woman were on their way with the money from the bank for the payroll of the Glenlyon Dye Works.

The prisoners gave their names as William Stephenson, aged twenty-two, and Joseph E. Kavanagh, the same age. They have been positively identified by Mr. and Mrs. Cote, who keep a small store on Lonsdale road, as a couple who visited their house two days before the attempted holdup, and each drawn pistols forced them to give up cigars.

Near Scene of Hold-up.

The store kept by the Cotes is not far from the scene of the shooting and attempted robbery. Miss Dodge will be taken to the prison in this city today, and she will be given an opportunity to identify the men, if possible.

Stephenson was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Bellows, and later Kavanagh was picked up by the same detective in connection with Detective Hearn. They were arraigned in the Pawtucket Police Court today, and pleaded not guilty.

The prisoners were held for trial on Wednesday, Chief of Police Adams of East Providence, where the Glenlyon shooting and attempted robbery took place, has had a look at the men, but could not say whether or not they were the ones wanted for the crime.

Victim Dies of Wounds.

Cote and his wife tell this story:

"The two young men came into the store about 7:00 on the evening of January 13. They asked for cigars. Some were thrown out to them. Then the pulled revolvers. We both screamed and after they had taken some cigars they went away. We are positive they are the men who came into the store.

Randall, who was shot in the face as he whipped up the horses and escaped from the hold-up men, died shortly afterwards from his injuries. Miss Dodge also received some of the shots from one of the guns, but she was not so seriously hurt.

JUDGE RULES RIGHT TO STARE

Judge Sullivan ruled in the Municipal District Court today that one woman has a perfect right to stare at another one. Mrs. Mary A. Shute of No. 1,166 Adams street, Dorchester, and Miss Stella Britton of No. 26 Lawrence street, South End, were up for mutual assault last Sunday night on the steps of the Spiritualist Temple.

Mrs. Shute complained that Miss Britton wrote letters to Shute, stared at her and finally attacked her at the Temple. Miss Britton denied the attacking and said she only wrote to Shute to ask him to make Mrs. Shute let her alone. Judge Sullivan discharged Miss Britton and found Mrs. Shute guilty, but filed her case.

"Have I got to sit and let anybody stare at me?" asked Mrs. Shute.

"You can stare back," suggested the Court, "but keep at arm's length and you won't have trouble."

"DIXIE" BARRED AS LINCOLN DAY SONG

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—President Schneider of the School Board has sent out notice to all teachers prohibiting the singing of "Dixie" at the Lincoln centennial celebration in the public schools. Many of the teachers had the old melody on their programs. Mr. Schneider said it would be treason to sing it.

HAD NO LIFE OR AMBITION

A Railroad Man at Fitchburg Tells How His Prejudice Against a Popular Remedy Was Overcome.

The symptoms of general debility vary according to the cause but weakness is always present, a tendency to perspire and fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, sometimes black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, vertigo, wakefulness caused by inability to stop thinking and unrefreshing sleep. The cause of the trouble may be some drain on the system or may be the result of physical overwork, sometimes insufficient nutrition due to digestive disturbances. In the latter case there is generally a loss of appetite and a coated tongue as well as general languor and debility.

Mr. George A. Herrick, of 4 Caswell street, Fitchburg, Mass., a locomotive engineer on the Boston and Maine R. R., says:

"Last November I was taken sick and called a doctor, who told me that I was all run down. After six weeks or so of his treatment I was no better and decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began to take the pills I had no ambition or life. I had no appetite, was weak and could not work. I suffered from headaches, had no color and my heart action was very poor.

"I was so nervous that the slightest thing annoyed me and so cold most of the time that I almost froze. I could hardly walk down town. I had poisoned myself before I was taken sick and the poison was in my blood causing a running sore on my ankles.

"A friend called me to the telephone one night and asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As a matter of curiosity I bought a box. In a short time I began to improve and soon was back at work. My appetite was almost beyond belief. Now I enjoy better health than I ever have and can stand exposure and hard work.

"Although I had a strong prejudice against Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I believe they are the greatest blood-builder and nerve tonic there is."

These pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.Y.

FAINTS AT SIGHT OF CORPSE; SUSPECT NOW ACCUSED AS SLAYER

Justice of Peace Frank Wilhelm, former Boston man who was slain at Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Fredericka Wilhelm, who identifies him as husband who deserted her twelve years ago.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 5.—Prosecutor Mott today directed that a murder charge be entered against Nicolai S. Sicca of Fall River in connection with the killing of Justice of the Peace Frank Wilhelm.

The formal charge will be preferred against Sicca by Police Chief Corbett this afternoon.

Sicca was brought over here from New York by the police, and brought suddenly face to face with the body of Wilhelm. The suspect collapsed.

A similar effort on the part of the police to get something out of the dead man's wife by putting her through the "third degree" drove Mrs. Wilhelm into hysterics, accompanied by profuse protestation of love for her husband.

Mrs. Wilhelm was taken to the morgue on a midnight visit to be confronted by her husband's corpse. When the sheet was suddenly snatched from the body Mrs. Wilhelm fell on her knees, sobbing: "Oh, Frank, if you could only speak and tell them who did this." The statement and protestations of love were the last the detectives extracted from their work.

Sicca Falls Unconscious.

With Sicca, however, the results were more sensational. The body of Wilhelm was taken from the morgue to the Wilhelm home and placed in the basement. Sicca was led through the house, then suddenly hurried downstairs. At the foot of the dark hallway a fight was suddenly flashed on the face of the murdered man. Sicca gazed as if fascinated. Slowly his eyes glazed, his hands clenched and his knees began to tremble.

"Sicca," called a spiritistic voice, "who killed Frank Wilhelm, you know. Answer me. Was it you?"

With a shriek, Sicca fell unconscious.

Further sensation was added to the murder of Wilhelm by the appearance of a woman at his funeral who said she was Mrs. Fredericka Wilhelm of No. 227 East Eighty-third street, New York, and that she was the real Mrs. Wilhelm.

The funeral was attended by Mrs. Marz J. Wilhelm, the accused man was released from Newark Jail for the service.

The funeral was interrupted by appearance of the real Mrs. Fredericka Wilhelm, who said she married the murdered man fourteen years ago, when he was known as Wilhelm Zoendorf, waiter in a Park row restaurant, New York. The Newark police credit her story and now say Wilhelm was a bigamist.

Will Claim Estate.

Mrs. Wilhelm No. 1 announced that she would lay claim to the estate of the slain man, which amounts, perhaps, to $10,000 or $15,000. The Newark police, to whom she told the detailed story of her marriage and subsequent life, said they believed she was telling the truth, and that Wilhelm was her husband and a bigamist.

Oddly, she was led to take an interest in the Newark case by a dream. At least that is what she said. If that part of her story is true, it is a study for psychologists. "I never dreamed of Frank," she explained, "during all the twelve years he was gone until Monday night. That is the night his body was discovered. Then his face appeared to me in my sleep. He looked almost the same as when I had last seen him. He said to me: 'Fredericka, I'm coming back to you at last. I've been a bad man, but I'm coming back to reward you for taking such good care of the babies.'

On Tuesday morning Mrs. Wilhelm spoke of her dream to neighbors. When they read the newspaper accounts of the Newark tragedy they pointed out the name Wilhelm to her. Then on Wednesday morning the papers published photographs of the dead justice, and Mrs. Wilhelm at once recognized him.

She wrote to the Jersey police and followed her letter by a visit to the Wilhelm home at No. 448 High street. Her children, Frederick, aged twelve, and Frances, eleven, had always prayed for their father, she said, and felt sure that this was he.

JOHNSON IS AFTER JEFF

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Nothing now stands in the way of a fight between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, but Jeffs's alleged determination not to scrap. A cablegram just arrived from Australia says that, if necessary, the colored man is willing to call off his Langford go in London, in order to meet Jeffries.

Johnson's friends declare the report spread by Mrs. Johnson's attorney to the effect that Jack was stranded in Sydney, from justice in this country is not true. They say Johnson is dickering with vaudeville men at present and will return soon and make a tour of the country.

EXPLAINS TO THIN LADIES

A Simp's But Sure Method of Developing a Well-Rounded Bust and Figure.

(From New York Journal.)

It is a simple but sure method of developing the bust, arms, neck, hips and shoulders of women, who through ignorance of nutrition and circulation are forced to look unnatural. It is a method so scientific and perfect that it must be understood that the human skin is an enormous gland, richly colored with nerves, arteries and excreting organs, and a network of minute blood vessels which contain at one time over one-third of all the blood in the body—that is, if only it is healthy.

The relation of the skin to the vital functions is so close that the only way of developing the flesh cells so as to put them as a team working together, is to get action on the skin. Then the organs of muscular, bone tissue structure connected by enchanted and the cells' worth of bones. Mix the ingredients with fourteen ounces of water, and let stand two hours; then add a teaspoonful of this to a glass of water, apply to the parts needing development massaging and night, rubbing until thoroughly absorbed; then wash off with hot water and soap and dry.

It is believed by expert dermatologists to be the most effective prescription ever compounded for the purpose.

Most druggists keep these ingredients on hand, or they can easily get them. Sherman, Ohio, who prepares guaranteed extracts, herbs, etc., especially for developing and filling, will doubtless supply them.

Man's Duty

It is a man's solemn duty to himself, to his family and to his country to do all in his power to preserve his health, that he may become a benefactor to his country and prove successful in his undertakings. To accomplish this he must keep his system cleansed of all impurities. If you suffer with sick headache, sour, bloated stomach, constipation, despondency, irritable temper, they are sure signs that your liver and stomach are out of order. Take my advice in time and go to your drug store to get a 50 days' treatment of Dr. Hurlburt's Vegetable Compound, 25 cents. If it fails to remove these troubles just send me the empty box and the name of your druggist and I shall return your money. Or, if you place no faith in my statements, I shall send you a free treatment free to show you that I am telling the truth. Write me today. Address Dr. HURLBURT, Station B, Cincinnati, Ohio. W. S. SCORE POLICE FOR FAKE RAIDS

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 5.—Mgr. Daniel W. Murphy, P. R. of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and Rev. Fr. Julien J. Richard have issued a statement censuring the Dover police department for a fake raid on houses in this city. The statement says in part: "As the representatives of about six thousand Catholics in this city we desire to call attention of Christian, law-abiding citizens to a most disgraceful condition of affairs existing here in various locations. The fact of these places being conducted here is well known to the police department, and if the do-nothing-policy of the past is continued and these foul dens are not removed the decent people of the city will rise in their might and insist upon their being cleaned out."

The Farmhand, the Workman and the Clerk

Author of "Lincoln the Lawyer"

Lincoln's development is not infrequently described as though it were the progressive triumph of a man—something more than mortal—who, though acquainted with poverty and misfortune in his childhood, took advantage of his first opportunity in life, and whose career therefore steadily spelled success.

This man of fixed purpose and indomitable will undoubtedly makes a stirring appeal as a hero, but he has nothing in common with those who, after repeated attempts to "find themselves," discover failure staring them in the face.

As a matter of fact, however, the whole of Lincoln's early manhood is a record of failure from a material point of view, and few men have less to show for their first years of effort than he had at the age of twenty-four.

As a field laborer he was far from a success, for he took no interest in farming and never cared to work at it a day longer than was necessary to put himself in funds. Moreover, his employers looked decidedly askance at the "hired man" who read as he followed the plow, even if his furrows did run true.

As a clerk in Offutt's country store he did little better, and beyond the fact that he served the customers conscientiously with full weights and measures, he did nothing to prove himself indispensable. Neither his heart nor his mind was in the work, and he watched the business "sink out" with no perceptible regret.

Then he sought glory at the cannon's mouth in the farcical "Black Hawk war," where he never saw an Indian, and where the "bloody encounters with the mosquitoes" and the "fierce charges on the wild onions" were the most glorious episodes of the campaign.

Then, somewhat as a forlorn hope, he turned to political life, presenting himself as a candidate for the legislature, only to meet with defeat and to find himself at the end of several profitless months utterly destitute of resources.

This was not a very promising record for a man of twenty-three. He had, it is true, all this time a more or less vague idea of becoming a lawyer, but he had not pursued it systematically, and he finally drifted back into the grocery business, this time as part proprietor of a store bought on credit without much prospect of making the venture pay.

Indeed, the manner in which he and his associate, Berry, conducted the enterprise almost insured its failure, for the senior of the firm filled "off" days away his days in dissolute living, while the junior member divided his time between them their slender stock of merchandise, disappeared, Berry drinking and Lincoln eating.

His Attitude Toward Business.

There is a story, which has at least the authenticity of being in character, that affords an excellent illustration of Lincoln's attitude toward his business. According to this tale a customer once disturbed Lincoln in his reading by entering the store and requesting 5 cents' worth of crackers.

Lincoln laid aside his book and, mechanically complying with the demand, awaited payment, but the customer changed his mind, remarking that he thought he would take a glass of cider instead, if it was the same price.

Lincoln swept the crackers back into their barrel and produced the cider, which the man promptly drank, and started for the door, then the storekeeping student of law, with his hand reaching for his Blackstone, roused himself sufficiently to remind the customer that he had not paid.

"Why, I gave you 5 cents' worth of crackers, didn't I?" demanded the purchaser. "Yes," admitted Lincoln, "but you didn't pay for them." "Well, I didn't get them, did I?" was the retort, and the man who was one day to become a master of logic resumed his book with a vague feeling that there was something not quite right with the transaction, but that it was hardly worth while to puzzle it out.

Such was Lincoln, the merchant, and his career in that capacity soon came to an inglorious close.

By this time he was four and twenty and he had not only not succeeded, but had given no evidence of stability and no indication whatever of aptitude for any line of work.

Those who have fretted over the waste of time spent upon uncongenial tasks can realize the discouragement which confronted Lincoln at this crisis of his affairs, for he had not only failed to fit himself for the Bar, but had completely bankrupted himself. It may be thought that for the penniless man bankruptcy has no terrors. But it was not so with Lincoln. It provided him with as sore a business temptation as ever confronted a man on the threshold of life.

Eulogy has robbed Lincoln's honesty of nearly all its human quality. He has been presented so often in the role of the perfect man, with even a touch of divinity added, that all real analogy between his experience and those of the modern business world has practically vanished.

And yet, it was a man of ordinary clay, with every reason for wishing to make his way in the world, who saw the ruin of all his hopes in the failure of Berry & Lincoln's store.

In the early days of Illinois credit was fearlessly asked and freely extended, and Lincoln and his partner had given notes for the purchase price of the business in which they had invested, and the sellers had disposed of the notes for a fraction of their face value at the earliest possible moment.

The Speculator's Chance.

The men who bought paper of this kind usually sold it again at the first opportunity or traded it for something else, and thus it passed from hand to hand until some speculator who had acquired it for nothing, or next to nothing, appeared and demanded the uttermost farthing.

Naturally this dubious business encouraged the evasion of such debts, and public opinion countenanced repudiation under the circumstances.

Thus, when his partner died, shortly after the business collapsed, and all the holders of the firm's paper looked to Lincoln for payment, there would have been few to criticise him had he acted according to the general custom, and there were not many who saw much merit in what he did. From a worldly point of view repudiation was the only way to adopt, for unless he wise his earnings would be indefinitely mortgaged and his ambition hamstrung, capped, if not defeated. It was easy to argue that the business had never been his undertaking, that as the original holders of the notes given in the purchase price voluntarily parted with them for a song it was unjust, if not unmoral, that those who had paid little or nothing for them should profit by a transaction which, if not usurious, was not much more creditable.

There was every incentive for Lincoln to accept this view. But to him a promise was a promise, and as a matter of self-respect, and not at all as a heroic act of virtue, he refused to compromise with his conscience and declined to deceive himself with "law honesty."

It was no saint who met the demands of his creditors, though it took him fourteen years to discharge what he called his "national debt," but a man who knew that "you cannot cheat at solitaire and think you've won the game."

Lincoln did not spring fully armed into the contest in which he made history. For many a year before he worked his way into the profession of the law he had a part with those who despair of ever finding their place in the world. His message to his eagerly striving countrymen of the present generation is that it is "better to make a life than a living."

Enjoy Your Meals

By Simply Eating a Little Pleasant Tablet After Each of Them.

A TABLET DIGESTS A MEAL.

When digestion is perfect the fluids necessary to this process come naturally to the aid of the stomach. They are of right proportion and do their work speedily and well. When indigestion and dyspepsia are prevalent, these same juices come slowly, if at all, are weak and insufficient, or are filled with wrong acids and alkalies.

When such a condition exists each meal is a hardship upon the digestive organs. The meal should strengthen by the juices, but on the contrary it weakens them, so that man by the very act of eating causes conditions to arise which of themselves bring him pain and nothing for the next meal.

By eating one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you mix the tablet with your saliva and it goes into your stomach a strong, vigorous ally. Besides it does more powerful than the natural digestive juices. These tablets are made up from natural vegetable and fruit essences and are composed from Hydrastis, Golden Seal, Lactose, Nux, Asceticpepsin, Peppermint, and Jamaica Ginger. There is the formula, and one grain of it will digest 3,000 grains of food in any stomach. Besides digesting the food it will give the blood the power to enrich the digestive fluids, so after a time nature will do the work of itself. Though you have no stomach trouble one of these tablets after each meal is a powerful assistance to nature and is an excellent habit to make.

Go to any druggist and ask his opinion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. We will abide his answer if he be an honest man. They sell for fifty cents per package. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 159 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

PARESIS GERM YIELDS TO CURE

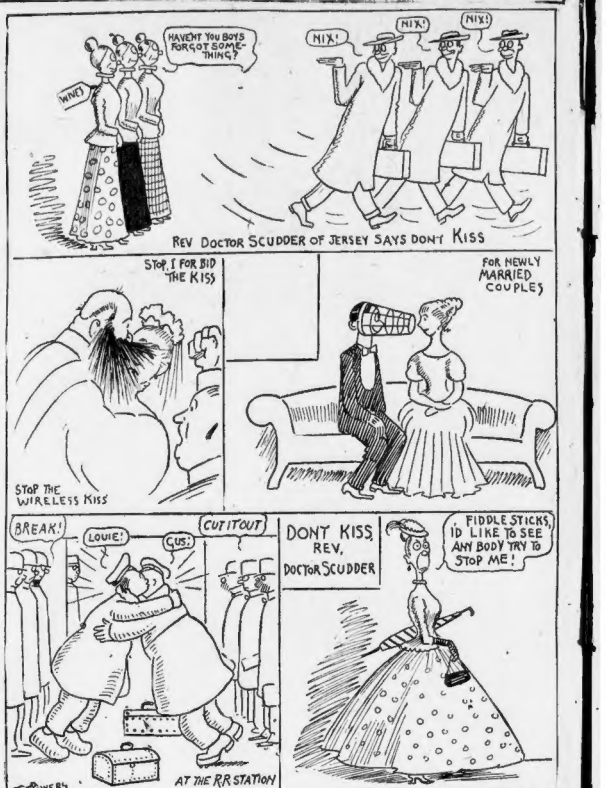
MASSILON, O., Feb. 5.—Dr. John D. O'Brien of the Massilon State Hospital today announced that he had effected as many cures of paresis that 20 no longer doubted he had conquered the disease and had invited the physicians of four counties to visit the hospital for a demonstration clinic on February 9. The officials of the hospital supplemented the announcement with a statement that many patients had been treated successfully, and that there was ample evidence indicating paresis is a curable disease.

Dr. O'Brien a year ago first declared that he had discovered the germ gone in an address before the American Medico-Psychological Association's convention in Cincinnati. He announced as the result of his experiments in these two declarations: That paresis undoubtedly is a germ disease and that the germ had been discovered, that, while in the experimental stage, in his opinion there seemed to be no definite cures. Since then he has been conducting further experiments with Dr. Tuttle, also of the hospital staff, and both physicians will demonstrate the treatment at the special clinic.

THORNTON HAINS EXPECTS ATTACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—In denying this afternoon a widespread rumor that he had been shot, Thornton Jenkins Hains, recently acquitted of complicity in the murder of William E. Annis, declared that an attack would not be unexpected, as it had come to him that a friend of Mrs. Claudia Hains had him marked. He said he was not going armed, but added: "I'll be able to take care of myself. I have received a lot of threatening cards and letters since my acquittal."

NO KISSING, SAYS REV. DR. SCUDDER



Boston girls are interested to hints that a revolution is coming in love-making, with one of the chief features of that gentle art omitted, unless some leader shall arise to champion the cause of young people of all ages against the onslaughts of the anti-kissing campaign which has been begun by the Rev. Dr. John L. Scudder, pastor and boxing instructor of the First Congregational Church of Jersey City, N. J. Dr. Scudder also runs the People's Palace, a sort of neighborhood house, in connection with his up-to-date institutional church, and preaches sermons on a list of subjects which were not to the front in the good old quiet days.

Just now, prompted by the Tuberculosis Congress, Dr. Scudder has taken up the Great White Plague as a side line, and in the course of his studies in this direction he has discovered the terrible ravages which the vice of kissing makes every year upon our population. Hence, although not for a moment losing sight of other things which give the tubercular bugs a chance, he has gone in for a campaign against the time-honored custom of pressing one's lips against the lips of some person else as a hunch that that other person is not wholly distasteful to one.

Raps Kissing Habit.

Last Sunday night Dr. Scudder preached a little matter of forty-three minutes on various phases of tuberculosis, including what may be called the osculatory plane. On Monday night he said more on the same subject at a meeting in his People's Palace, called to organize an anti-spitting society, and now he outlines his principles more in detail.

"Right here it may be said that this opposition to kissing is no new thing with Dr. Scudder as far as his own personal inclinations are inclined. He has not allowed his wife to kiss him on the lips in a good many years and would not do so in any circumstances, and by the same token he has not kissed her on the lips during the same period. Nor will he do so any more. And this principle he is inculcating in his children, none of whom is ever kissed in that way by him or by their mother—so he says. In fact, Dr. Scudder went so far as to say that Mrs. Scudder agrees with him in these principles.

But first should come what he himself has said in public on the matter.

Kissing to Death.

"Under no circumstances," he has told his flock, "kiss a person upon the lips, for lips are moist or the moisture has dried upon them, leaving the disease germ behind. If the person happens to be a consumptive. As the person afflicted with tuberculosis cannot be recognized in the early stages, I affirm that kissing is a hazardous custom, and it is time for civilization to start the cry 'Quit your kissing.' There is such a thing as kissing one's person to death."

Instead of free osculation and the subject of mothers and their babies and their kisses between them, Dr. Scudder had a few words to say about kissing dogs, cats, canary birds and parrots and other household pets. The enmity, even, of microbes in the column of those to whom kissing is to be denied, was given an honorable mention. Dr. Scudder said, "and we must develop some other method of showing affection besides kissing. It is time to start anti-kissing leagues in every State in the Union. Cut out kissing, I say, and do it right away. If you have not the courage to stop and cannot give it up kiss your friends upon the cheek, but never upon the mouth.

Your Foods Forever—
Shot from Guns

These will be your foods forever when you try them once. You can't go back to common cereals then.

You owe this food to Prof. A. P. Anderson. He invented the process and devised the guns.

Into those steel guns he puts the wheat or rice, then seals them. Then revolves those guns, for 60 minutes, heated to 550 degrees.

The moisture in the grain becomes steam, under terrific pressure.

Then the gun is unsealed, and a deafening explosion follows. That's how we get these curious foods.

Quaker Puffed Wheat, 10c

Quaker Puffed Rice, 13c

So delicious that you hardly know when to stop. The kernels—eight times their natural size—melt in the mouth.

The coats are unbroken—the shapes unaltered. You get simply the magnified grain.

But that delectable taste isn't half so important as the fact that the grain digests.

Every starch granule has been exploded. The digestive juices instantly act on the particles.

This most delicious of all cereal foods is also the best food for you. Don't go without it longer. Order a package now.

All the Patents are controlled by The Quaker Oats Company.

LITTLE BABY HORRIBLY BURNED

By Boiling Grease—Skin All Came off One Side of Face and Head—Tried an Ointment which Made It All Faster—Wee Sufferer Seemed Disfigured for Life.

CURED WITHOUT A MARK BY CUTICURA

"About a year and eight months ago my baby, aged ten months, was sitting on the mat beside the fender and we were preparing the breakfast when the frying-pan full of boiling grease was upset and it went all over one side of the baby's face and head. One of the family ran and wiped the scald with a towel and you may think what a mess she made, pulling the entire skin off. We took her to a chemist who told us to get a doctor, which we did. He tended her a week and gave me some stuff like lard to put on. But it all festered and I thought the baby was disfigured for life. A woman close beside me told me to try Cuticura Ointment. I used about three boxes and it was wonderful how it healed. In about five weeks it was better and there wasn't a mark to tell where the scald had been. People used to ask me if that was the baby that was scalded and they would hardly believe me when I told them she was and what cured her face. Her skin is just like velvet and I have never been without Cuticura since Cuticura cured three other children of ringworm besides, so I have good cause to thank it for what it has done. Mrs. Hare, 1, Henry St., South Shields, Durham, England, March 22, 1908."

Mr. Graham, who is a Harvard '00 man, is the son of the president of the International Trust Company of Boston and is a member of the Tuna Pudding and other prominent clubs. The wedding will be an event of the Easter period and Miss Smith, who is an exceptionally handsome girl of the decided brunette type, will be a welcome addition to the rapidly increasing number of New York girls who have married Boston men.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence of Groton, who have been at the Hotel Westcott in New York since concluding their visit with the George von L. Meyers in Washington, have been joined by Mr. and Mrs. William P. Wharton, for whom they gave a large dinner Wednesday evening.

It was a thoroughly delightful reception and tea which Mrs. Stephen Webb gave at her Brookline home yesterday afternoon for a host of Miss Marcia Newell of Bath, Me., whose engagement to Stuart Webb, Mr., whose engagement to Stuart Webb, Mr., Harvard '06, was recently announced. The rooms and the tea tables were beautifully decorated with pink roses and carnations, and Miss Newell, who received with Mrs. Webb, carried out the color scheme in her gown, which was also rose pink. Mrs. Webb wore black satin; Mrs. Samuel Sewell were lavender and Miss Louise Webb a simple gown of pale blue silk. The pourers were Mrs. Sewell, Mrs. F. W. Gilbert, Mrs. Walter Boyden and Mrs. W. J. Peis of Cambridge.

NEWEST HAT IS "BILLIE BURKE"

And now comes the Billie Burke hat.

Farewell to the wide-brims, the pillboxes and other millinery favorites.

The Billie Burke hat is in Boston and is pronounced by women who have seen it as "a perfect dear."

Miss Burke, the charming ingenue and star who appears at the Hollis Street Theatre Monday night, is rather original in her choice millinery and has various other ideas. When she was here last season supporting John Drew she found a buyer for the Henry Siegel Company who understood her own particular ideas on hats. Last month this buyer saw a hat in Paris which he straightway decided to produce for the Boston trade. He called Miss Burke and the latter's result was that the hat, adapted a bit to accord with some of Miss Burke's own ideas, will be now formally adopted by her and is known as the Billie Burke hat.

Miss Burke wore the new hat on the first automobile ride she took in the Boston Fenway after she recovered from her recent illness. A replica of the hat will be on exhibition at the store of the Henry Siegel Company, beginning to-morrow.

Pretty Marie Claus, a twenty-two-year old Belgian girl, is to-day detained at immigration headquarters as a principal in a double elopement and will be returned next week to her native land, where her husband and child will be waiting at the pier. Her affinity, Michiels Francois, is also detained and will be returned, but on a later boat.

Francois says he was ruined of his own wife, while he was in Boston to make his fortune. While in Belgium he became infatuated with the Claus woman, wife of one of his friends. He lured her away, according to the immigration men, by promising her a brilliant future in America.

Francois came to America in 1907. He had been here but a short time when word came that his wife had eloped with a man named Peter De Niper. He went to Belgium only to find the pair had gone to America. Francois denied the statement until questions by the inspectors forced him to tell all.

AL SHRUBB IS FAVORITE IN RACE WITH LONGBOAT

LANGFORD SAYS HE MAY CLAIM KETCHEL'S TITLE

Hayes Ready to Bet $1,000, but

DORANDO WON'T RACE

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Johnny Hayes, winner of the Olympic Marathon in London and recently matched to meet Dorando Pietri here, will not permit the Italian to crawl out of the match set for February 20 or 21. Dorando's refusal to meet Hayes here in a Marathon has stirred the American to activity, and today he wired Promoters Callahan and Houseman that he would bet the Italian $1,000 on the side that he can defeat him.

"I know that Dorando fears me and is using every possible excuse to avoid a match. He says he has beaten me and it is useless for us to race again. If he feels that way I have $1,000 to bet that I can win. If winning from me is so easy as he appears to make it, let him cover my thousand.

"People aren't passing up thousands in any easy manner these times, and unless he comes through with a better story for his refusal to run against me he will only show more clearly that he fears defeat," wired Hayes.

Hayes's direct imputation of "quitting" failed to stir the Pietri brothers, who held a two hours' session with the local promoters in the afternoon. They declared they would not race Hayes under any circumstances, and perhaps nobody for a while. Harry Gilpin, the sports writer of New York, who have the American "rights" to the Italian marathoner, have been invited for assistance and may have to appeal to the courts to compel Dorando to fulfill his contract with them.

Dorando denied cowardice, but said he was in the enemy's country and had been fooled in New York by Hayes and verbally assaulted during his walloping of Covey at the Dexter Park Pavilion.

"If Dorando races Hayes again," declared his brother, Ugisto, "he says he wants a revolver in each hand and to crawl in the infield so he cannot be tripped. But we will not race Hayes, so why talk of it?"

To guard against Dorando's backsliding the local promoters will endeavor to secure the winner of the Six-day Longboat race at New York Friday night to meet Hayes.

It's "weeding time" in Balldom, and the umpire's ringing shout
Has changed to many players, what they hear is "down and out;"
This is the final dictum in the little world of ball,
For Father Time, as umpire, is the greatest of them all.

A player flushed with prowess and the boastfulness of youth,
Can well afford to sneer and laugh and fling his terms uncouth
At umpires who cross words with him, but one day comes the call,
"You're down and out," from Father Time, the greatest of them all.

For Father Time, as umpire, takes no heed of name or fame;
His "down and out" is sure to come no matter what the game.
This umpire's shout brooks no appeal when once you hear the call,
"You're down and out," from Father Time, the greatest of them all.

LANGFORD WILL CLAIM TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Sam Langford is after the middleweight championship and to-day declared that unless Stanley Ketchel, the champion, did not answer his challenge within the next few weeks he would thereafter style himself middleweight champion. The colored fighter is ready to meet Ketchel at any catch-as-catch-can match with the champion posted $1,000 as part of a $5,000 bet that he can beat the champion.

"I have signed up for a bout with Jack Johnson in England, but that need not affect this bout," he said. "I have been trying for months to get the white boxers to meet me and they are all afraid. They dodged me just as they all dodged Jack Johnson. When Jack got his chance he proved what he could do.

"What difference does color make, anyway, if there is anything in the talk of boxing being a test of strength and skill and also of its being a sport? George Dixon and Joe Gans both were champions, and I never heard of either doing anything to lower the sport. Neither did Peter Jackson. If Ketchel won't agree to bee inside of a month I'll claim the championship. Reports from Grand Rapids say he weighs 165 pounds. He can scale what he pleases if he'll only fight."

Langford's manager said that the colored boxer had plenty of backing and that there would be no difficulty about the side bet.

Willus Britt, who is handling the affairs of Ketchel, is now negotiating with Hugo Kelly for a match for March 17, and it is likely that Kelly and the champion will hook up. Should Ketchel win from the Italian it is likely that Britt then will consider a match with the colored fighter. "It is not because we fear Langford that we are holding off," said Britt to-day, "but because Stanley does not want to fight a colored man until all the white men have proven conclusively that they cannot take his title away. If Ketchel must be beaten so as to want a white man to win the crown, but if Stanley has conquered all the whites then of course we will fight Langford."

GIANTS START SOUTH FEB. 17

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants will leave for Marlin Springs, Tex., with the first contingent of Giants on or near February 17. Besides himself and Ground Keeper Murphy, none scores of recruits will be found in the ex guard. McGraw will follow last year's policy during Spring training. He will devote attention early in the season to the new material. None of the regulars or old heads connected with the Giants will go out with the first squad.

At least nineteen, and perhaps twenty, will make the early leap. Those players who live in or about New York will start from Gotham. The others will assemble at Western points—Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis—to join the party as it journeys west. The trip will be made by rail this year. Here is the squad that McGraw has definitely decided upon to make the trip: Pitchers, Marquard, Durham, Raymond, Wiltse, Ames, Crandall and Holmes; catchers Seidel, Meyers, Snodgrass and Wilson; infielders Devore, Wagner and Simmons, and outfielders Murray, O'Hara, R. Meyers and Cook. Pitcher Jake Weimer will be one of the party if he chooses to terms with the Giant management.

Of this bunch the work of Marquart, Raymond, Murray, Seidel and Durham will be most closely followed. Pitcher Vergez Seidel is counted upon to take the place of Roger Bresnahan. Murray is classified as a finished outfielder are known, but the fans are anxious to see if he will play as well for New York as he did in St. Louis. Pitcher Marquart is supposed that Weimer look most promising. Whether his strength will be added to the list, the regulars will have to figure it out with the new men when they go to Texas about March 1.

HORSEMEN WILL FIGHT BILL

Owners of horses throughout the State are up in arms against the bill filed by the Automobile Owners' Association providing that all horse vehicles, carriages, wagons, carts, sleighs and sleds will have to be registered just as automobiles are at present.

While there are four bills filed by the auto financiers, the one named, and the one compelling all horse-driven vehicles to carry lamps, both front and rear, which was before the committee on roads and bridges yesterday, are the ones the horse owners will make a strong fight to defeat.

A horse owner living in the country had the following to say regarding the bills: "How do we like it? Well I say aside I have two carriages, two sleighs, three lumber carts, a milk and a cart, a hackaway and Victoria. How can they be taxed and Weeks at a time I am only one of the vehicles. Then again how can they collect? I go all over the operation. My wife and daughter may occasionally drive out in the town limits and I hardly ever. How about a 60-pound cart of milk? Another wagon exceeds compared to an auto? Nice work, eh? Why not drive the horse drawn vehicles off all the roads at once? How about a load of hay, a load of wood, a 100-pound road wagon due to a road drive at a jog trot? Why not drive the horse at speed on roads any more?"

From the horse owner is the following: "If this bill does pass you will see the farmers put a stop to it. They will hire a lawyer to drive into town to talk to the legislators to hold across the road and stop automobiles. Why not drive the automobile folks to saddle off some of their debts and pay for the upkeep of the automobile persons seem to think that because they have money they can run over mothers through the roads at the risk of their children's lives. I for one will do my share in turning out the lightning, that they will drive through the country to make children miserable for horse owners."

The driving clubs interested in the State are prepared to be present at the hearing to be given before the committees with a combined opposition to the bills filed by the automobilists. The teamsters of Boston and other cities will, too, be present at the State House Tuesday next when the respective horse bills will be heard.

John L. Sullivan's Column

For time telling golf there is nothing in the way that Chicago sporting writers will stick to their fighters. Everything Packy McFarland does, short of cold-blooded murder, is all right. If Packy wants any of the roles changed to suit him, why, that's fine, go as far as you like. Any weight that he demands is the proper weight, and if the other fellow doesn't yield he is a four-flusher and a coward and ought to be driven out of the business.

Not only that, but the Chicago writers will stick to a dead one longer than a mad turtle which never lets go. Take the case of "Cyclone" Thompson. Now "Cyclone" may not be exactly a dead one, but most everybody outside of Chicago put him in the has-been class some time ago. But in the Chicago writers' opinion the one would think that every other fighter in the "Cyclone" was dunked in the river collar as soon as he appeared on the horizon.

As a matter of fact Thompson is referred to by writers in other cities the way the Kilrain fight used to be handled by the dramatic writers. He is considered a wonder by everybody outside of Chicago, but for the past six months the Windy City scribes have been boosting the "Cyclone" as the next logical Heatweight champion.

It will be recalled that a few days ago Thompson went out to Idaho and tackled Jack Sullivan, a preliminary boy. Peter beat the "Cyclone" to a pulp, but the Chicago boys never said a word. They rallied quickly and began talking of a match between the "Cyclone" and Battling Nelson.

Thompson is a game fellow and willing, but he has been beaten so often that I get tired counting.

Harry Ferns, who recently went down before Young Corbett in New Orleans, has returned to New York, singing the praises of his conqueror. Believe me, he said, "Young Corbett is right back in the game for fair. I believe he is as good to-day as he ever was, and he will be a hard man for anybody in his class to beat.

I thought I had an easy mark, but he fooled me badly.

"Instead of finding him fat and slow, he is in splendid condition and as fast as a bullet. I hit him good and hard in every round, but he didn't mind it at all. Even when I fought him to the floor in the fifth round, he got up with a flash and tore into me as if nothing had happened.

"The blow that put me down for the count landed over his heart, and for a moment I thought I was literally a dead one. Nothing ever hurt me like that one. But still the young Corbett strikes this territory and what he will do to the world for light-weight champions, I don't know.

It will be a most unheard of thing if the former champion does not again be a world-beater. Young Corbett has had a fine rapid life for eight years, but he can get back to his former shape he will be simply a wonder.

John L. Sullivan.

Dear Sir—Please tell me if using chest weights is good exercise for a fighter.—Ed Carter, East Boston.

Chest weights will help to develop the back and shoulders and is very good exercise.

John L. Sullivan.

Dear Sir—Please tell me what nationality Abe Attell's manager is.—A. B. Northbridge.

Attell has managers all over the country, but Abe represents him in New York and is a Hebrew.

John L. Sullivan.

Dear Sir—Please tell me if Jim Driscoll is an Englishman, when he was born in Cardiff Wales, Feb. 5.—Driscoll.

Driscoll was born in Wales and might be called a Welshman as well as an Englishman.

COBB WAS BEST RUN-GETTER IN LEAGUE

Statistics just completed show that Honus Wagner drove more men across the plate than any other batting player during second to Wagner comes Ty Cobb. Six times during the season, did Cobb drive four runs across the plate in one game.

Johnny Kling is the only man who twice slammed out home runs when the bases were filled.

Cobb gave the Tigers 101 runs during the year, either by hits or outs. On the champion club, Crawford was second, securing eighty-five. Herman Schaefer ripped off a four-bagger with bases full on one occasion during last season. There were two others. Heine Ferris and Jim Murphy, in the American League, who equalled Herman's feat.

DONLIN LAUDS HIS MANAGER

"John J. McGraw, in my humble opinion, is the greatest baseball head in the world to-day."

That's what Captain Mike Donlin has to say of his manager. Of course, it stands to reason that nimrod any player would give vent to the same line of zaftig about his boss if called upon for an expression of the subject by a newspaper. But the best part of Mike's utterance is that it was purely voluntary and was in the presence of three or four old-time acquaintances in St. Louis this week.

"McGraw is only about as equal in baseball," continued Donlin. "The better baseball acquainted with him the more thoroughly I am convinced along this line. He has forgotten more baseball than most men who have presumed to criticise him will ever know.

"There is not a cleaner player or a more square man in the game than McGraw, notwithstanding all the criticism that has been made of him. Baseball is not the game of whist or checkers. Any play that is legitimate, be it easy or tricky, coming and if a player can get away with such a play it's all in his favor. I should not be taken from this that McGraw advocates the cutting down or injury of players of opposing teams, but if it's merely a matter of 'out-sticking' them, why, that's his long suit.

PRIZE WINNER ELVITA IN BOSTON DOG SHOW

In the coming dog show has been entered in several classes the clever little Boston terrier Elvita that created a sensation at the recent Lynn exhibition and is the property of Dr. John Dunphy of this city. Elvita made his debut at the Lynn event for twelve to seventeen-pound dogs. In competition with over a dozen others she was awarded first prize. In the class for dogs under 12 pounds she was second, while in the class for open dogs he got third in a field of six of the best Boston terriers in the country. A special prize of a solid silver cup for the best novice dog or bitch was, too, awarded to Elvita.

Since the exhibition of the Lynn show a wealthy New York fancier offered a very high price for Dr. Dunphy's pride, wanting him to put in the show, but it was declined, he not having it for sale at any sum. Elvita is an accident for his owner, the doctor not being a fancier of dogs, and has not shown before Lynn. Elvita is a dark steel brindle, with perfect markings. She is bred is commended by experts of Boston terrier fame. She was born July 24, 1907, and sired by Butler B., son of Cracksan an, out of Dolly B.

"OUR BOYS" TO MAKE MERRY ON FEB. 10

Who is there in East Boston, or, in fact, New England, who does not remember, twenty-five years ago, the champion base ball club of East Boston, "Our Boys"? Among the living members are Jerry Hartley, Billy Webster, Jack Fitzpatrick, Gene Sullivan, Mike O'Donnell, Mike Leary and Aloysius O'Brien. "Our Boys," together with many friends, are preparing to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club in the near future, and for that purpose a meeting has been called in the office of Jerry Hartley, Bremen street, for Wednesday evening, February 10, between 7 and 8 o'clock.

ISBELL TURNS SCRIBE.

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 5.—Frank Isbell, the Chicago White Sox infielder, will write the baseball news for the sport section of the Daily Eagle next Sunday. This will be his first venture in sport writing. "Izzy" declared to-day that he was satisfied with the contract sent him by President Comiskey of the Sox, and that he would sign it soon. At present the writer-ball player is busy signing players for the Wichita Western League team, of which he is half owner.

SCHMIDT IS HOLDING OUT

DETROIT, Feb. 5.—The reason why Charles Schmidt, Detroit's backstop, will not sign the 1908 contract, has at last come to light. Schmidt is sore on the Detroit fans for not expressing appreciation for his work last season.

The great work of Donovan, the brilliant base running of Cobb, the consistent hitting of Crawford have all been heralded by the fans, but his part has been almost entirely overlooked. He, however, intimates that although the fans did not do their duty toward him, the club should not forget to do so, namely by giving him a boost in salary.

President Navin sent him a contract calling for a larger sum than that received in 1908, but it seems that the figures do not suit the Arkansas catcher.

There seems to be very little chance of a serious rupture occurring, for Detroit needs Schmidt and will probably accede to his demands.

MAGNATES BAG BIG GAME IN HUNT

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—With a freight car packed in layers of deer and bear, Messrs. Comiskey, Johnson and Cantillon of the American League have returned home.

The party left Minnesota give a day on the recent gift of Ossie Schreck to the Ohio team. It is said that the Sox are to get Tony Lazzeri, catcher, in return for Schreck, and if such is the case the Sox are lucky. Lazzeri is a live one of great promise. He is not only a wonderful catcher, with an average of .974 in eighty-eight games, but a fine thrower, having 128 assists in the season, while he hit .275 and led the American Association in home runs. When a man plays less than three-fifths of the season's games and can do all this in one year he will be some long range catcher. Boston had better look to Mr. James, but Columbus expects to get him back, and, presumably, to hand him over to Comiskey.

M'GINNITY MAY TAKE OUTLAW CLUB

READING, Feb. 5.—Among those who are reported as eager to put an Atlantic League club in this city is Pitcher Joe McGinnity, formerly of the New York Giants. Reading capitalists have been mentioned as being affiliated with the league, but they will say nothing. Manager Jacob Weltner of the Reading baseball club will be ready for them, and says he will give them the franchise they are looking for. He has returned from Philadelphia and New York, where he was in search of a good catcher.

WANT LAMPS ON ALL VEHICLES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The pros and cons of the proposed legislation requiring all vehicles using the highways at night to carry lighted lanterns were debated to with remarkable attention by the members of the State committee on roads and bridges. The committee gave close and undivided attention to the matter and, what is more, sat long over its usual hours so that none might go away dissatisfied. The bills, which were four in number, all having the same purport, that of causing vehicles to carry lighted lanterns, brought forth a host of friends and likewise enemies, the master teamsters predominating among the opponents. During the three or more years that bills of this nature have been presented before the Legislature there has never been a more interesting or well attended hearing, and it was evident that both sides to the contest were ready for a long battle over the question. The committee was certainly fortified and equipped in its handling of the matter, although one member of the committee took no considerable time in asking questions and telling of his personal experiences. Only few of which went germain to the question and all more or less a recital of personal impressions. Those in favor of the measure comprised motorists, stablemen and horse owners and drivers, they including Chairman A. D. Comeau of the legislative committee of the Massachusetts State Automobile Association, F. J. Hurtubis, Jr., W. A. Thibodeau, W. H. Chase, Lewis E. Spoare, A. E. Leach, John Coghlin, Walter Chase and others.

The opponents to the measure included H. F. Fay, Representative Frank H. E. Chase, A. H. Green, F. E. Taft, Amos W. Shepard, A. W. Fuller and Mr. Robbins.

The consensus of opinion among the petitioners was that the proposed bill was a necessity from the point of safety to all users of the highways at night. It is a measure sought more for the protection of the horse drivers and the public at large, and one having behind it no selfish motive. It was not a class measure or one that would necessarily mean any great expense to the team owners and others, but simply one more in the safe guarding of life and limb. The opponents to the measure felt that it was quite unfair for the purpose of protecting automobilists that it was unnecessary and would entail needless expense upon teamsters and horse owners. They felt that the motor vehicles should carry lights and that there was an urgent need for all other vehicles to do likewise. Perhaps the most telling single argument put up was that by Mr. Taft, who brought forth some phases not before overlooked, that the fact that lighted lanterns would necessarily increase the insurance rates in barns and stables wherein such lighted lanterns were carried, although it was brought out in evidence that the great majority of livery and other commercial stables are equipped with electricity.

It is considered doubtful if the committee will do anything save report leave to withdraw or the measure in the shape of many, the time is not far distant when all vehicles using the highways at night will be forced to carry lighted lanterns. This is the only measure that the Massachusetts State Automobile Association will advocate during the present sitting of the Legislature, that body feeling satisfied that the present motor law is all that is necessary.

* * *

On Tuesday next this same committee will give a hearing of the measure introduced by the Auto Owners' Association, which provides for the registration of all vehicles. The State Association will not as an organization take any action on this question. Nevertheless, the hearing would be most interesting, and the fight waged on the same a stormy one. Frank J. Hurtubis, Jr., the father of the bill, will fight for the same and it may be taken as granted that the expressmen and others will turn out en masse in opposition to the same that they did yesterday, and they were by no means in the minority then.

ALL READY FOR B. A. A. GAMES

Great sport is promised at the annual indoor games of the B. A. A. in Mechanics Building to-morrow night.

Although the entry list is not quite as large as usual it is far more classy.

Athletes from nearly all the large colleges will be represented besides the crack club teams of the organization. Despite the fact that the Irish American A. C. games are held at New York on the same evening, the local event has succeeded in knocking many crack New York A. C. stars as well as other club stars from Gotham.

The demand for tickets has been larger than ever before and the 5000 extra tickets issued two days ago have been disposed of. The meet will have many of the athletes who represented America at the Olympic games last Summer.

The college relay team will be represented by five crack runners, while some of the other star athletes are Bill Coe in the put shot, Harry Gissing in the middle distance run; A. R. Shay, the former Dartmouth crack, in the hurdles; Louis Tewanima, the fleet Indian distance runner; and Lee Talbott of Cornell, who shines in the pole vault.

Among some of the more prominent football players who will be seen in competition are: Ted Coy, Bobby Barch, Goebel, Andrus and Coyer of Yale; Bill Horr of Syracuse, Johnny Mayhew of Brown, Marks of Dartmouth, and Rogers of Cornell. Most of these gridiron stars are in the shot put, but a few are runners.

BOWLING ALLEY GOSSIP

Left-handers in bowling are generally considered as erratic as in baseball, being at one time invincible and at other times the worst players in sight making the easiest set of proposition. However, the Nine of Kings left-handed and has proved himself a good article, being reliable and true in his work.

There is no manner set of leaders in any city in the state than Lynn. The interest in bowling in that city is a credit to any league, and the fact that the Lynn bowlers have won the cracks of the shoe city and Boston.

There is no attempt to do so in the Boston City League than Chester Church. He hardly ever misses a set, and those fortunate scores only drop the following step into the seventies.

There are few days of the season on rolls do creditable work on their home alleys. True there are a few exceptions to the rule, but the majority of the members of the league do their best.

Manager Hooker of the Burke alleys is looking for a match game for the Burke alleys, and that as it may, though, as expert claimed, the Lynn average will be found to be the best and the alley right used surely get the title.

There are many of the fans who look at Thane Bowa in Chelsea square are intimating that, This season they will be found in the fifties, and looking from now on new records will be in order. Recently Bowa has been rolling in the 120's, and of nearly 1000 pins.

Edgar Greene got things going both for a few games in the Method League, but after them he disappeared, and looking for a first class bowler for the season.

RACING KILLED ON THE COAST

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 5.—Racing in the state of California received a final blow when the Senate, by a vote of 23 to 7, passed the Walker-Otis antipari-mutuel gambling bill, which prohibits pool selling, bookmaking or gambling on horse races.

The bill had already passed the Assembly, and it will next go to the governor for his signature, after which it will become a law. Governor Gillett has signified his intention to sign the measure if passed by both Houses, but it is believed that he will not take this action until thirty days' said have elapsed. As the bill affects pool dealers and bookmakers sixty days' time in which to close up their affairs. The present season of racing at the Emeryville and Santa Anita courses will be shortened.

The Walker-Otis anti-gambling bill is referred to as the "Hughes law of California," inasmuch as it follows closely the text of the bill which was passed by the last Legislature of New York. Violation of the measure is made a felony, the punishment for which is imprisonment in the penitentiary and a heavy fine.

YALE HOPES TO BEAT PENN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 5.—The mat artists of Yale and the University of Pennsylvania will contest for honors to-night in the first intercollegiate meet of the season. During the forty years of intercollegiate wrestling the Pennsylvania team has never been defeated, but the followers of the Blue pinned a different tale after last night's contest.

The 145 and 165-pound events are conceded to Pennsylvania, while Yale is certain of the 125 and 135-pound events. The outcome of the 158 and 175-pound events is problematical, they being owned by Yale hangs her hopes on Prime and Livingstone.

READY FOR ICE RACING.

HALLOWELL, Me., Feb. 5.—Trainer Fred Crispin has a string of three horses which he is fitting for the races on the Kennebec river, and he is confident that he has some winners among them. In the string are the pacers Trilby, owned by Warren S. Malcolm, known everywhere by her performance of 2.07 1-4 on the half mile dirt and to the toe, and, and she is in charge of Bert Dudley; the three-year-old pacing Phelan B., an own brother to Harry T., and the two-year-old pacing colt Ben Stackpole of L. A. Bartlett of Belgrade. Mr. Crispin thinks Ben will be entered by Will Knowles. The two latter horses have been sired by Phelan B., and they will probably give a good account of themselves for their breeders.

TWO HORSE RACES BAD.

One mistake made by some of the driving clubs in intercity racing has been too many horses in the events. In the days when two colts were taking part Hon. Rowe every interesting. This kind of racing has to in the owners of the contesting horses, but to the public it is of little value. It wants or will pay admission to see. There is considerable feeling here over the matter, and that any two of them could provide a good afternoon of sport.

"THE BARRIER", By Rex Beach

A ROMANCE OF THE KLONDIKE. THE ... OF A KENTUCKY SOLDIER'S LOVE

Copyright, 1908, Harper & Bro.

"HA! We shu' got no men lak dat in Flimbeau!"

They said good-night, and the old man entered his house to find Allana waiting for him, a look of worry on her stolid face.

"What's wrong?" he inquired.

"Nothin' is wrong. I been peepin'."

"Is she sick?" He started for the girl's door, but Allana stopped him.

"No. It is not that kind of wrong; this comes from the heart. It is there she is sick. I went to her, but she grew angry, and said I had a black skin and could not understand; then she went outdoors and has not returned."

Gale sat down dejectedly. "Yes, she's sick in her heart, all right, and so am I, Allana. When did she go out?"

"An hour ago."

"Where is She?"

"She is the river-bank—I followed her in the shadows. It is best for her to stay there till she is calm."

"I know what ails her," said the father. "She's found out she's not a white girl. She's found that a white soul doesn't match a fair white body; she never got over the skin." Then he told her of the scene in the cabin. "I suppose I ought to have believed she loved Lieutenant Barrell."

"Did she say so?"

"No, she didn't say, now that she knows she hasn't got his kind of blood in her."

"Blood makes no difference," said the woman, stubbornly. "If he loves her, he will take her; if he does not—that is all." She took off her apron, and was about to explain, when the utter impossibility of her companion's plan made him desist, and he fell moody again. At last he said, "I've got to tell her, Allana."

"No, no!" cried the woman, against whom all her self-sacrificing instincts were rising. "It would be worse than that!"

"But be continued, deliberately: "Love is the biggest thing in the world; its the only thing worth while, and she is going to have a fair show at it. This has been on my mind for weeks, and I've put it away, hoping I wouldn't have to do it; but now I can't. I've got to face it again, and it's up to me. She'll have to know sooner or later, and now's as good a time as any."

"She would not believe you," said the woman, at which he started.

"I never thought of that. I wonder if she would doubt? I couldn't stand that. There is no proof, and if would mean your life. A good man's life is a great price to pay for the happiness of one girl."

"I gave it once before," said Gale, in a self-bitterly, and now that the game is started I've got to play it. Nothing will lost—I wonder if she would doubt?"

"Well, I'll guess I'll be going," he said, presently, and he rose and took up his hat. "If she comes in, tell her I'll be back in a few minutes."

"And Stark?" said Allana.

"Yes, and Stark."

Barrell took his prisoner to the bar racks, where he gave him under guard, giving instructions to load him at any cost, knowing what wild stuff Stark was. Dinner the new citizens of Flambeau might overdo drinking this night, for it is said who have always lived with the halter on their heads will run wild when the bridle is removed.

Gale sat down dejectedly. "Yes, she's sick in her heart, all right, and so am I, Allana. When did she go out?"

"An hour ago."

"Where is She?"

"She is the river-bank—I followed her in the shadows. It is best for her to stay there till she is calm."

"Allana!" he cried, when he was startled by the sound of his name breathed softly; then, to his amazement, he saw come forth like a spirit into the silver sheen.

"Neela!" he cried, "what are you doing here at this hour?" She looked up at him sadly; her new hair dress were wet, and something inside him snapped and broke. Without a word he took her in his arms, meeting her lips in a long kiss, she, trembling with the joy of the embrace, drew closer and closer and her body wearily against his.

"Oh, my girl, my girl," he whispered over, his tone conveying every sympathy, love, and understanding. "I craved. Kindness as the Foundation of Character

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1900, by American-Journal-Examiner

SOME one has asked me why I talk more of the necessity for kindness to animals than I do of the necessity for kindness to children and people.

This is my explanation:

Character is built in layers, like the earth. The very first foundation of a noble character is kindness. All other virtues and talents are like houses built upon the shifting sand if kindness is not at the base.

The word "kindness" has become almost meaningless by its misapplication.

Thousands of Christian people believe themselves "kind" when they give money to charitable institutions and speak to those they deem inferiors—with condescending amiability.

They rear their children to be "kind," but they do not explain to the unfolding young mind how kindness includes an understanding of the great responsibility the strong owe to the weak, the robust to the ailing, the well-to-do to the poor, the complete to the deformed, the speechendowed to the dumb.

How to Banish Suffering

If every child living to-day were made to realize this sense of responsibility, and to feel sympathy, protection and love for the helpless animals, the deformed, sick or penniless humans, more than two-thirds of the sorrow, suffering and sin on earth would vanish in one generation.

The idea of "kindness" has been talked in an abstract manner from the pulpits of the world for centuries. The word has grown inane, like "brotherly love" and "Christianity."

Children hear kindness urged at Sunday school and public school, yet they go out upon the street and tease and ridicule some wretched beggar or forlorn peddler or tramp, and they "say" the dog on the tail of the cat and laugh at the result.

These same children of Christian parents, pupils of Christian teachers and members of Christian churches, drive behind horses with docked tails and are not taught to know that the docking process is mutilation of a portion of the animal's spinal column, and that the poor beast has been deprived of his means of defence against insects.

The Starting Point

These children consider the over-check a "stylish" affair, and they are not taught that it means torture to the animal.

This sort of civilization and education—called Christian—has left a vast section of the brain where kindness dwells wholly undeveloped. The child who has no sense of duty toward an animal has also no sense of duty toward a fellow being.

It is because I know the importance of a solid foundation for any structure which we hope will last that I so constantly advocate laying the reason work of kindness to animals as the starting point for a useful character.

I do not believe any little girl, however unfortunate in her environment, will grow into a careless, unloving or cruel mother if she is taught to love, protect and care for the birds, cats, dogs and horses she sees as she grows toward womanhood.

I do not believe the boy who is awakened to a knowledge of his responsibility toward animals will grow into a bully or torment cripples or tramps or to misuse his own kindred.

No Room for Jealousy

It is an excellent thing for the world at large that so many societies are being formed everywhere to educate children and adults in kindness. The more of these societies the better. But it is sad doing to observe the petty spirit of jealousy often existing between two societies formed for the same purpose, but bearing different names.

The American Humane Association is a noble and admirable society, an organized federation of humane societies and individuals having for its object the prevention and suppression of cruelty, and especially of cruelty to children and animals.

Its work is excellent, and every member of the S. P. C. A. should rejoice in the formation of the Humane Association, and every member of the Humane Association should wish godspeed to the S. P. C. A.

Instead I find rivalry and jealousy and backbiting existing in many places between the two societies, and I am ashamed of human nature when it can drag down a noble cause by such unworthy feelings.

Should Work Together

They handicap and hinder the progress of kindness in the world.

If you are a member of either society recognize that you are merely a finger on God's hand. Do not feel jealousy or rivalry toward any other finger, but think of yourself as a part of the great whole—incapable alone, but helping to give power and completeness to the other members of the supreme body.

When the motorman's hand reached down and threw up the child from the track no one finger of that hand cried out against the others which united in making its strength.

Do your work in your own best way and wish godspeed to all fellow workers.

To-day's Best Story

"THIS happened to me, and I want to publish it as a warning to other deluded men," said a business man the other day. "I was busy at the office on til late, and there dropped in unexpectedly a friend whom I hadn't seen for some time. Of course, we immediately adjourned to a popular cafe, where we set 'em up a couple of times.

Then my friend insisted it was due us to have dinner right there as we were. Well, I said I was coming home to dinner, but I knew there would be explanations needed if I tried to send word, so I told him he knew that there would be more if I didn't let the wife know.

Anyway, I marched to the telephone, which busy convenience near, and called up my house. As soon as I heard my wife at the other end I pathetically murmured: 'Can't get home to dinner, dear; I'm detained with work at the office and will stay late.'

There was silence for a second, and then I nearly threw a fit. My wife answered back firmly. 'Well, of course, I believe you, but when you get home you'll have to explain to me how they happen to have an orchestra in your office.'"

When Betty Goes a-Coasting

Sometimes the Sled Goes Over a "Kiss-Me-Quick"

By Nell Brinkley

"It's bob-sled eitiquette to steer with his chin on her much-beloved shoulder"

"For every rock or hump, when the sled leaves the earth, he swi pes a kiss"

DO YOU know this "Kiss-Me-Quick" of the coasters? I didn't, and I thought I was wise in the lore wherein Kids and Bettys and Billys move.

"I want a toboggan Betty! I want her bad! And we've never had one," I wailed this morning, "but I can't think of a reason for her—some 'why' to hang her onto."

"Make," said the editor, straightening up and jingling the merry sliver in his pockets, with a shining in his eyes and a broad, shame-faced smile.

"Make a Kiss-Me-Quick. Make that!"

"What is that? I don't know it."

"Why, when a Billy," he said, "likes his Betty off tobogganing out on special sled, he hunches up behind. And it's bobsled etiquette to steer with his chin on her much-beloved shoulder. Comes skimming is bullet; but the bumps are best. For every snow shrouded rock or hump, when the sled takes 'em and leaves the earth for a little while, he swipes a kiss, in the flying white powder and her blowing hair.

"That's a Kiss-Me-Quick. And it's good bob-sled form. That's a good picture. Oh, I know the Kiss-Me-Quick; for I haven't forgotten! Why, many a time——"

And then he jingled his gay silver money in his pockets and laughed.

His Pa Tells a Strange Tale of Being Shanghaied

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THE picter on my slait today is a picter of my Pa & Ma wen Pa cam hoam last nite. It wasent nite any moar & wen he cairn to the breakfust inbel Ma & me was waiting for him.

Good morning, my darling fambly, Pa sed. I hoap this luvly morning finds you well & happy, as I am. & you especially, deerest bur, Pa sed to Ma, I hoap you are espesshully happy & well.

Leeve all that out of it, sed Ma, & after you have first been duly sworn, tell me where you was last nite.

Then Pa began for to shake. I shudder seven now, sed Pa, to think of the awful horror of that terrible site. I was shanghaied. Yes was what? sed Ma. I was shanghaied, sed Pa, shanghaied by a lot of brutal sailors wich wanted me to sail with them arrost the deep blue water. I resisted, sed Ma, your story interests me strangely.

Well, Pa sed, it was like this. I was walking along the water front last evening, thinking, as usual, of my darling wife & little son.

This picter is my Pa & my Ma wen my Pa caim hoam.

Pa Deesided to Buy a Parrot

I was about to cum hoam to dinner wen a happy thought calm to me. I deesided that I wud buy a parrot, sed Pa, wich cud talk from day to day & help my self to a dear friend to fergit that I was down town. So I started out to find a parrot, Pa sed.

As is usually the case wen one (1) wants any thing in a hurry, sed Pa, there wasent a parrot anywhare in site. I met sum sailors that sed they knew where I cud git one (1) and they sed me ortter to a pink wich is called Billy's Palace. This pluis did not differ in enr assembal parlaiter, sed Pa, from other taverns. It had a bar & a bread cull on which to put your feet on, sed Pa, & it had a barkeep wich was named Otto.

Sure enuff, sed Pa, we found a parrot there, a very highly educated burd. It cud talk jest like the rest of us, Pa sed, only not quite so thick. Jest then, sed Pa, as I was about to buy the parrot & cum hoam with him, I felt a crushing blow on the back of my hed, & I never so moar.

You didn't? sed Ma. No, I didn't, sed Pa. Wen I awoak at last, sed Pa, I was in total darkness. To add to my confusion, sed Pa, I heard the lapping of water, as if waiks was dashing against sum sort of a craft, & I seemed to be rolling & pitching about.

That Sounded Nateral to Ma

Rolling & pitching sounds nateral, sed Ma. Pro-ceed.

I seemed to be rolling & pitching about, Pa sed, & there was a intoler-able pain in the back of my hed. I was almost perishing of thirst, too, Pa sed.

That sounds nateral, too, sed Ma. Go on.

Well, sed Pa, I finally managed to shake myself clear of my chains, for I was bound hand & foot with big chains. I lugged & untill my veins on my forehead stood out like whipcords, sed Pa, & at last I was free. I dashed madly up to the deck & faced the cuptine.

Cuptine, I shouted, wat does this outrage mean? The big brute tried to appease me down with a lookying glin, Pa sed, but I was too quick for him & bent him to the punch. He fell like a bullock, sed Pa. It hardly seems possibel, sed Ma.

Wen he fell, Pa sed, I put on his uniform & ordered the sailors to go back to the harbur. It looing dark, sed Pa, they evidient see my face & thought I was the cuptine. So here I am.

Ma dident say anything. She jest looked at Pa.

Teach the Children

THAT tossing each other is a punishable offence.

That they must eat bread and butter before cekes and sweets.

That bedtime is not a "movable" hour.

That they must speak politely to everybody.

That crying over bruises and tumbles is silly and iokyish.

That punishment follows in the wake of untruthfulness and deceit.

That it is bad taste to tell all they learn of their neighbors' domestic affairs through visiting or playing with the neighbors' children.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ASK HER TO WAIT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-one years of age and I am deeply in love with a young lady three years my junior. I have been going with this young lady for the past three years and have reason to believe that she also loves me.

Now, Miss Fairfax, do you think I would be doing right if I asked this young lady to become engaged to me for two years, as I would not like to lose her, for I am unable to support her at present, as I am only earning $10 per week. At the end of a year and a half I will have finished my trade and will be earning $100 per month. At the end of two years I will have enough money saved to start housekeeping and put some aside for a rainy day, should it come.

W. G.

YOU are both young, and two years will not be too long to wait if you care for each other. So I think you might ask her to become engaged for that length of time. I hope you will prosper in your wooing.

An Experiment With Love in a 4-Room Flat

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"WHERE are you going?" said the Spinster Lady's friend, as the former came into the room in hat and coat.

"I'm dining with Rose and Harry. This will be the first time I have seen them since their marriage."

"Are they back already? They did not stay away very long."

"They did not go away. They had very little money to spend, and so, like sensible young people, they decided to go straight to their apartments and spend all their spare money on furnishings.

"To-day Rose wrote me that it was all finished, and that they wanted me to dine with them to-night. I am to be their first guest. If you care to have all about them, sit up until I get home, and I'll tell you all about it."

And so it happened that three hours later the Spinster Lady found her friend, in dressing gown and bedroom slippers, curled cozily in a big chair by the open fire.

A Glimpse of a Charming Home

"Well," said the friend eagerly, "tell me all about it. I am so interested! Is the apartment pretty?"

"My dear, it is charming, and they have done most of it themselves! They are the happiest young things I have ever seen."

"What color is it? It is a large apartment?"

"Only four rooms and a bath, and the rooms are all small. There is one bedroom, a parlor, a dining room and the cunningest kitchen you ever laid eyes on.

"The walls in the dining room and parlor are a soft green, and in the bedroom a pale yellow. The only pictures are a few good photographs of the old masters.

"Harry painted the floors in the two front rooms, and in the middle of each there is a plain green rug, and one or two smaller ones in front of the doors and fireplaces.

"The bedroom has a pretty figured matting on the floor, and everything in it is white and yellow.

"The furniture is all of the simplest kind, but in excellent taste. Rose made all the curtains, muslins, and they are hanging baskets of ferns and vines in the windows, and the whole effect is charming."

"Tell me about the kitchen. I adore kitchens."

"Well, you'd love this one. It is all blue and white, and the linoleum is blue and white, the walls are white, and the sash curtains are blue and white muslin. The cupboard is filled with blue and white china, and there are dear little blue and white boxes for tea, sugar, salt, etc."

"How about the dinner—was it good?"

"Delicious, and cooked by Rose all herself."

"What did you have?"

"In honor of my being there they went to the extravagance of having oysters. Then we had a perfectly broiled steak, mashed potatoes, celery with cream sauce and pie. Oh, but such a pie, my dear! And then coffee."

"And Rose cooked it all?"

"Every bit of it. And to say that Harry was bursting with pride does not describe it."

"What did he say?"

"Every time Rose left the room he would turn to me and say: 'Isn't she wonderful? Did you ever know such a housekeeper and such a cook. She learned how to cook when we were engaged, and she is so economical. I tell you, dear Spinster Lady, I'm a lucky man.'

"And he is. There is no reason why all young people should not marry on a small salary, if all girls were as sensible and clever as Rose, and a wife is a help and blessing to any man."

NEW DEALS IN ACTIVE REALTY MARKET TO-DAY

Considerable activity marked the real estate market to-day, much in contrast to the small dealings of yesterday.

In the North End the large four-story brick stores and office building at Nos. 375-383 Washington street, north, at the corner of Endicott street, has been sold by Minerva B. Kaiser to Matilda Berwin. The property is assessed for $32,000, of which $25,000 is on the 2,060 square feet of land.

Catherine Lexington has transferred to Ephraim Alper the estate at No. 108 Myrtle street, at the corner of Grove square, West End, consisting of a five-story and basement brick building and 2,000 square feet of land. The whole property has a taxed valuation of $25,500, of which $800 is on the land.

In Roxbury, Max Silk has transferred to Samuel Rosnitzky and Samuel Rosnitzky the three brick houses and 3,140 square feet of land at Nos. 11-15 Dorset street, opposite Velentine street, all assessed for $11,100, of which $1,200 is on the land.

Daniel J. A'Hern has sold to Lizzie Simon and thence to Ada E. Stevens the property on Windsor street, near Westminster street, Roxbury, consisting of a three-story swell front brick house and 1,110 square feet of land, all taxed for $4,000, $1,000 on the land.

Sales in East Boston.

In East Boston, Sarah C. Wheelwright has conveyed to Thomas McKie three lots on Gladstone street and three lots directly back of them on Orient avenue, comprising a total of 15,704 square feet of land, for $2,900.

In the same section of the city Nicola Ruggiero has sold to Patrick Rich the vacant land on the corner of Saratoga and Orient streets, consisting of 2,345 square feet of land, assessed at about 25 cents a foot.

Charles S. Harkeman, et al., has conveyed to Fred N. Davis the frame house and 3,28 square feet of land at No. 9 Flint street, near Norfolk street and opposite the Brewster School, Dorchester, all taxed for $4,700, which is $1,000 on the land.

Another Dorchester transaction is the transfer of the frame house and 2,500 square feet of land on Howes street, near Dorchester avenue, by William L. Bertsch to Reuben Flaherty. It is all taxed for $1,000, $700 on the land.

The frame house and 3,500 square feet of land on No. 5 Mather street, Dorchester, have been sold by Kenneth S. DeWitt to Warren F. Tea. The property, which is all assessed for $5,700, is located between Dorchester avenue and Silloway street. The land is assessed for $1,200.

In Brighton the vacant tract of land, containing 20,000 square feet, at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Chiswick road, has been transferred by Annie J. Fraser to Horace J. Phipps. It is taxed for $12,000.

Plymouth County Deal.

The Chapin Farm Agency has sold for the owner, Mrs. I. Wentworth, her house place in Raynham, Plymouth County, containing 61½ acres of land, with a modern house of seven rooms, a stable and other buildings. The estate was sold to Mrs. Mary E. Kelsey of East Bridgewater. The price paid is not made public.

The legislative committee of the Real Estate Exchange has registered with the Committee on Roads and Bridges, H. H. Hibbard, chairman, its petition for Senate bill No. 40, providing against the alteration or change of names of streets, squares, parks, as in the interests of real estate. The preservation of historical associations being always a valuable asset to the community. The committee has represented that it was important to avoid confusion of real estate titles and to follow changes of thoroughfare names.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The Wayne County Grand Jury has completed its investigation of the Sampson murder tragedy. Mrs. Georgia A. GRAND JURY BILL IN SAMPSON CASE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The Wayne County Grand Jury has completed its investigation of the Sampson murder tragedy. Mrs. Georgia A. Sampson, charged with the murder of the nephew of the late Rear Admiral Sampson, will probably know whether the secret tribunal has placed her in the shadow of the electric chair.

City Hall Notes

The "Red Devils" of Ward 20 will have their annual election of officers next Monday evening. Charles L. Tousley is a candidate for re-election as president, and Peter F. Hanley, John J. Reardon, Cornelius J. Doherty, Congressman O'Connell and Edmund J. Dwyer aspire to be vice presidents. Daniel T. O'Connell is down for re-election treasurer.

Alderman Curley promises to give his first white corral in Ward 17. George P. Daley, a councilman from the same ward, has most elaborate headquarters. The Alderman says the councilman is a corker.

Tammany Club will outshine in beauty the headquarters of any political organization in the city.

Mayor Hibbard has accepted an invitation to address the Boston Latin School Academy on next Sunday evening. It is the only speaking engagement he has contracted for the month.

The Board of Health has been rigorously investigating the milk supply of late, since complaints have come in that they fail to sterilize, wash their hands, clean towels properly, and violate their ordinances and rules and laws in every way. As a result of their investigation, there will be one criminal prosecution, at least.

DON'T BE A READY MADE MAN

GEORGE'S, 14 Summer St. GEORGES, 539 W. 50th St. GEORGES, 191 E. 15th St.

George's Rule for 29 Years: No Garments Carried from One Season to Another.

WHEN we announce that our February reductions will be 25 per cent off, we mean 25 per cent off facts. We have never carried garments from one season to another, and we never will. Every garment we make is to sacrifice at this season of the year. Here is the reason why we can sell garments for less money because we can possibly be turned into new garments. Here is the reason why we can spend today to make prices extraordinarily low. Here is the reason why we can sell a suit of dark brown tweed overcoat, from a leading Boston tailor's stock, guaranteed to be all wool, and the very latest styles, and will assist to many dress suits, for $15; as we never carry garments from one season to another, we can afford to sell them for $15, as we never can afford to sell them for $200; our price $22 to $65. GEORGE'S TAILOR SHOPS, 14 Summer st., Boston. Wednesday afternoon, Saturday night. Originators of the sale of merchant tailors' stock and cancelled for garments.
